$6,000,000,000 SIZE OF NEW LOAN

McAdoo in Speech at New York
Says Issue Will Bear
4-1-4 Per Cent.

URGES ALL TO BUY BONDS

Secretary Says We Cannot Lick
the Kaiser Unless We Back Up Pershing and Our Boys in France.

New York, Sept. 25.—Six billion dollars is the minimum amount which the people of the United States are asked to subscribe for the fourth Liberty loan, according to an announcement by William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, in an address here on Tuesday night outlining the government's plan for the campaign, which starts next Saturday.

The share allotted to the New York federal reserve district is $1,800,000,000, or 30 per cent of the loan. The share allotted to the Chicago district is 14 1/2 per cent, or $870,000,000. The Boston and Philadelphia quotas are $200,000,000 each and Cleveland is to raise $600,000,000.

The loan, which will bear 4 1/2 per cent interest, will run for 20 years, maturing October 15, 1935, unless the government should exercise its reserved right to redeem the bonds on or after October 15, 1933.

Asserting that, without the vast sum "we cannot lick the kaiser," Mr. McAdoo made a special appeal for the subscription of corporations and wealthy individuals, as returns from the third Liberty loan indicated that large means had not responded "commensurately with their abilities to help."

He pointed out that of the 18,000,000 Americans who subscribed for the last loan, only 22,500 including corporations, bought bonds in excess of $10,000.

"It would be preposterous," he said, "to say that there are only 22,500 men, women and corporations in America able to lend more than $10,000 each to their government in Liberty bonds."

Applauded by a crowd which filled Carnegie hall, Mr. McAdoo said, in part: "The treasury of the United States asks the American people to subscribe to the fourth Liberty loan, $6,000,000,000. This money is needed to carry on the war. We cannot lick the kaiser without it. We cannot restore peace to the world and re-establish liberty and democracy without it."

"We are building a great merchant marine. Upon completion it will be the largest, most efficient and modern merchant fleet in the world. The money used for this purpose is an investment of immeasurable value to the American people."

Asserting that "everybody should buy bonds," Mr. McAdoo continued: "I was asked not long ago what arguments could be made for the fourth Liberty loan. I replied immediately, 'Pershing and our heroes in France.' No other argument is necessary."

"What we must do in America is to keep the pressure high. Now that we have the kaiser and his brutal forces on the run, let us not relax effort but intensify effort. Keep hitting hard and steadily harder. That is the way to win surely and quickly. That is the way to eliminate the kaiser; that is the way to open an American parade on Unter den Linden."

"No man can shirk his duty without incurring the just reprobation of public opinion. The debt itself will be repaid and the shirker, whether from military service or in the field of labor or in the ranks of the wealthy, will be made to withstand the fling of scorn which will be mercilessly pointed at him."

LIBERTY LOAN PENNANTS

Where 75 Per Cent of Employees
Subscribe.

This recognition of patriotism, it was announced here, will not interfere with the plan heretofore of awarding honor flags to all communities exceeding their quotas.

Stores, factories or organizations will receive cardboard emblems for window display where 75 per cent or more of their employees or members subscribe, and this will be exchanged for a pennant after the campaign is finished and the final percentage is determined.

Palestine and Take 25,000
Captives.

Paris, Sept. 25.—French, Serbian, British, Italian and Greek armies all continued to advance against the Bulgars and Germans in Macedonia, according to dispatches received from the front on Monday night. The enemy has been forced to evacuate the whole line from Doiran to a point west of the Vardar river.

Entente allied cavalry was three miles from the Bulgarian frontier in the region of Strumitza, according to latest reports. The Eleventh German division was reported to have been cut from the main Bulgarian army and to be retreating in disorder.

The first Bulgarian army in the region of Monastir and Delir has been cut off from communication with the second army, in the Doiran sector.

The Franco-Serbian troops are pursuing the Bulgarian army, which is in full retreat. The entente allies now command the mountain zone, from which they will be able to debouch in the plains. According to the dispatch, the Serbians have already captured between 5,000 and 10,000 prisoners and 120 guns.

The Italian troops in Macedonia have advanced an average of more than seven miles in pursuit of the Germans and Bulgarians and have taken 10 villages and numerous prisoners, according to a report from the Rome war office.

Serbian troops have cut the main railway line between Eskib and Salonika, and are on the western bank of the Vardar river. Since September 15 the Serbians have advanced 40 miles.

London, Sept. 25.—Reports from the Palestine front indicate that none of the Turkish force of at least 40,000 men, supplied by the British through the seizure of the last of the passages of the Jordan can possibly get away.

Twenty-five thousand Turkish prisoners and 200 guns had been captured up to Sunday, according to General Allenby's forces, pushing northward through Palestine.

The war office announcement says that the Seventh and Eighth Turkish armies virtually have ceased to exist. The entire transport of these two armies was captured by the British.

Security by the British of the crossings of the Jordan at Jazirah-Bedouin, on Sunday morning shut the last avenue of escape to the Turks west of the Jordan.

$24,000,000,000 Needed for Washington, Sept. 23.—By unanimous vote, the house on Friday passed the $6,182,000,000 revenue bill, the greatest tax measure in history. The bill contains 350 members voting for the bill and not one against it.

The unanimous approval given this bill, which constitutes one of the major features of the government's program for winning the war next year, is regarded as further evidence that the American people are united as never before in the determination to win the war.

In bringing debate on the revenue bill to an end, Representative Longworth of Ohio declared that the $6,000,000,000 revenue bill was the best answer yet to "Austria's whining peace plea."

"This will be good news for the allies, and cold comfort for the kaiser," Mr. Longworth said. "It will show the Huns and the Germans and the Hungarians that hereafter we will deal with the head instead of the tail of the German war machine."

Jordan Valley.

London, Sept. 24.—The capture of the ancient Palestinian city of Nazareth, the early home of Christ, was officially announced by the war office. Eighteen thousand prisoners and 120 guns were captured by Gen. Sir Edmund Allenby's army.

The Turks were cut off by British cavalry while trying to escape into the Jordan valley. British aviators, bombing and machine gunning the trapped Ottoman troops, helped materially in bringing about the final victory, which is reported in a dispatch sent by General Allenby.

British cavalry squadrons operating in Palestine have advanced some sixty miles from their original positions, and have occupied Nazareth, Afula and Beisan, according to a British war office announcement.

General Allenby's forces are collecting the disorganized masses of Turkish troops and transports arriving from the south.

BETTER POULTRY HOUSES PAY

Poultry Club Boys Building a Poultry House.

COMFORT IN HEN HOUSE REQUIRED

Prepare in Early Fall for Cold, Disagreeable Weather When Fowls Are Indoors.

ESSENTIAL FOR WINTER EGGS

Fresh Air, Dryness, Sunlight, and Space Enough to Keep Chickens Contented Are of Importance—Make Roof Water-tight.

During the summer the poultry-house question has not given the poultry keeper much concern. The chickens have had the freedom of outdoor life most of the time and just so they had a clean, dry place, free from vermin, and covered with a good roof to keep out rain, was about all that was necessary. But as winter approaches and weather conditions are such that the fowls must be confined more, it is essential that their indoor quarters be made as comfortable as possible. This is one of the requisites of winter egg production.

The prime essentials in poultry houses, according to the United States department of agriculture, are fresh air, dryness, sunlight and space enough to keep the birds comfortable. The particular style of house is not important, for a house that gives satisfaction in the North will also give good results in the South, but it is preferable to have more open and consequently less expensive houses in the South than in the North. The location should have good water and air drainage so that the floor and yards will be dry, while the house should not occupy a low pocket or hollow in which cold air settles. When it is possible, a southern or southeastern exposure should be selected, although this is not essential if there is any good reason for facing the house in a different direction.

Importance of Roof.

The roof is the most expensive but a most important part of the poultry house, and should be water-tight. Shingle roofs should have a one-third pitch, while those covered with paper or metal may have a less pitch, or be almost flat; however, the greater the slope the longer the life of the roof.

The shed or single-slope roof is adapted to houses up to 16 feet in width. It is one of the easiest styles to construct. It allows a high front to the house, and furnishes a northern slope for the roof on which roofing paper will last longer than on a roof which faces the south. The combination and semimonitor roofs are adapted for buildings from 16 to 24 feet wide, while either of these styles, or the monitor and the gable roof, may be used for wider buildings. The combination roof on a house over 16 feet wide gives the best head room at the least cost, reduces the amount of surplus air space, and gives a neat appearance to the buildings; while the semimonitor and monitor types are best for wide houses which have a central alley, particularly broader houses.

The semimonitor house usually faces south, while the monitor type of roof is frequently used on buildings facing east or west. The gable roof is used extensively for two-story buildings, for brooder houses, and for incubator houses. This style of roof is usually eaved at or slightly above the eaves, or the gable may be filled with straw or some kind of absorbent material, which tends to keep such houses dry and warm. The A-shaped roof is used for growing-coops and colony houses which, with a wall 18 inches high, provides a large amount of floor space with a minimum amount of lumber, but increases the roof surface, which is the most expensive part of the house.

A large amount of glass in the front of the house makes it warm during the day and cold at night, as glass radiates heat very rapidly. Unobscured sunlight, or a light weight of duck cloth, is used for curtains in the front of poultry houses. This cloth should be thin enough to allow a slow circulation of air without a draft, which object is defeated by using too heavy a grade of duck or by oiling or painting the cloth. The front of the house should be high enough so that the windows or openings will allow the sun to shine well back during the winter.

Good Floor Important.
The best kind of a floor depends upon the soil and the use of the house. On light, sandy, well-drained soils a dirt floor is satisfactory, especially for small or colony henhouses. Such floors should be from two to six inches higher than the outside ground surface, and it is advisable to renew them each year by removing the contaminated surface down to clean soil, and to refill with fresh sand or fine gravel. A board floor is generally used where the level of the floor in the house is from one to three feet above the ground surface and is not well drained. Board floors harbor rats and rot quickly, and should be raised some distance off the ground so that cats or dogs can get under them, which also allows a free circulation of air to prevent the wood from rotting. Cement floors are adapted to long permanent buildings, brooder houses, incubator houses, and to all permanent houses where an artificial floor is required and can be built on the ground level. These floors are easy to clean, very sanitary, rot proof, and comparatively inexpensive. If one has a supply of gravel or sharp sand.

The interior fixtures of the pens should be simple, portable, and inexpensive. Roosts are usually placed next to the end or back walls, six to ten inches above the dropping boards, while the latter are from two to two and one-half feet above the ground. They should all be on the same level, otherwise the birds will crowd and fight to get on the highest roost. Scantling two by three inches or two by four inches, with the upper edges rounded off, makes good roosts with either the wide or narrow surface up. Allow seven to ten inches of roost space per fowl, according to the size of the bird. Roosts should be placed about 16 inches apart, but the outside ones may be within ten inches of the edge of the dropping boards.

Nests may be placed under the dropping boards on the partition walls, or in any convenient place where they do not take up floor space, and should be arranged so that the birds can get into them easily. They should be 12 to 14 inches square and 12 to 16 inches high, with a strip about four inches high on the open side to retain the nesting material. Provide one nest for every four or five hens. Trap nests are essential in any careful breeding work, such as pedigree breeding, or the breeding of exhibition poultry.

HINT TO FARMERS ON LIBERTY LOAN

JUDGE WADE OF IOWA SUGGESTS HOW THEY MAY DETERMINE THEIR SUBSCRIPTION.

TEST OF THEIR PATRIOTISM

Present Sacrifices Not Comparable to Those Made During the Civil War—Durbin of Indiana Hits Roosevelt Presidential Boom.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington.—An idea was advanced by a government official recently in regard to the coming Liberty loan which ought to be considered carefully by people in the rural districts, particularly those who live on farms. Judge Wade of Iowa was responsible for putting the idea into the heads of government officials. His argument to the farmers in regard to the Liberty loan is this: Let every farming community, say an agricultural county, figure up just what its taxable valuation is in the matter of wheat, oats, corn, barley, rye, cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry. Let every individual farmer take stock of what his tax returns are for these various articles which are produced on the farm and of which the surplus is sent to market. Then let him consider what was the cash value of his stock and produce before the war, and also figure what that stock value is now. Let him consider how much he is taking out of the war, and then if he doesn't have an idea that he'd better put some of the profits into Liberty loans he is lacking in that patriotism which is supposed to exist throughout the agricultural communities of the United States. It has often been claimed that, whatever else may happen, the honor of the United States will always be sustained by the patriotism of the agricultural classes. In this coming Liberty loan campaign there is an opportunity for the farmers to show their patriotism by subscribing to the full extent of their means.

The patriotism that has been shown in the matter of saving food and coal and other war necessities upon demand, and particularly the recent demonstration when a simple request from the fuel administration resulted in practically complete cessation in the use of gasoline on Sundays, has encouraged authorities at the national capital to believe that the same patriotism in the matter of self-denial and desire to win the war will finally have been won by farmers. There is no denying that the government has felt a great deal of uneasiness about the labor situation ever since this country entered the war. For the most part it has known that men on the farm, in the shops, and nearly everywhere are working earnestly and industriously in the matter of producing ships and supplies for our overseas army. But there have been many strikes, many days and hours lost. There has been an estimate that something like half a million good working days have been lost by strikes. During all this time every effort has been made to conciliate the men who have been dissatisfied and the hope is expressed that there will be no need to resort to the drastic legislation which has been predicted. At the time the work-or-fight provision was introduced in the last draft bill, predictions were made by several senators that it was likely still more drastic legislation might be necessary in order to secure the necessary man power in this country to carry on the war. Such legislation will not be enacted until it has been demonstrated that it is absolutely necessary.

There seem to be two kinds of German propaganda loose in the United States. One of them is of that insidious character which constantly finds its way into the public prints as news items misrepresenting conditions in the United States and trying to poison our people against putting forth every effort to win the war. The other consists of misstatements in regard to Germany. For systematic effort made to convince the people in this country that the German people are not in earnest in the war; that they are not behind the government; and that they are in a deplorable condition. Photographs taken in Germany during the past year or two tend to show that the horrible condition which is alleged to exist among the people has been exaggerated for some purpose. The people who are familiar with the Germans know that they are supporting their government with more earnestness than has ever been shown in any nation in Europe with the single exception of France. Evidently this propaganda regarding the breaking down of German support is for the purpose of discouraging extra effort on the part of the people of the United States.

The sacrifices which the people are making now are small compared to those they made in the days of the Civil War. Sold a woman whose husband was in the war, and who is now a very old lady: "My husband enlisted as a soldier in a Minnesota regiment. I had three small children. We had to live on his pay of $15 a month and such other resources as we could get out of a farm on the frontier. While my husband was away in the South

"I'll kiss her and let you see us."

All sorts of questions are asked in the consideration of the water power bill. For instance, quite a number of men are very anxious to know whether or not we are going to destroy Niagara falls, Niagara rapids, and the rapids of the St. Lawrence river. Congressman Humphreys of Mississippi was very much exercised over these questions, more so than New York congressman. Congressman Dempsey of New York made a rather satirical remark about Humphreys coming all the way from the Gulf of Mexico to look after the interests of New York and other Western border states. Many New Yorkers think the value of the rapids in the matter of scenic beauty can be improved and the power of that water also used for commercial purposes.

If the waterpower bill goes through as proposed by the house, there will be a commission of three cabinet officers, the secretary of war, secretary of the interior and secretary of agriculture. But the main officer will be a secretary, who is to carry on the work. The house, true to its predilections, spent an hour's debate over the question whether it should be an "executive secretary" or just a plain, ordinary, "secretary."

Diplomacy.
"Mrs. Green has another new hat, and I—"
"My dear, Mrs. Green has to have new hats. If she were as pretty and as attractive as you are she wouldn't have to depend on the milliner so much."

Next Morning, They Say.
Kidd—Well, it isn't a crime to get intoxicated, you know.
Kidd—No, but I understand it's extremely bad taste.

A Taming Process.
"So she's got her cross old husband tamed, has she?"
"Tamed? I should say so! She's got him so that she can take money from his hand without his snapping at her."

His Experience.
Gentleman (to boy)—You know the saying that if a man does not work he shall not eat?
Beggan—I don't find it 'zactly that way, boss; but I know if my stories don't work I don't eat.

a fierce Indian war broke out in estate and were driven from home and lost everything. Afterwards my husband was very severely wounded and when he came home was unable to do any kind of work. Our situation was similar to that of thousands, but we never heard any complaint of the government, and all this time our energies were bent upon supporting the government and saving the Union."

There was no politics in the criticism of the agricultural survey or extension bill. Senators on both sides of the political aisle said some very caustic things in regard to the appropriations. In the course of these criticisms Senator Kenyon, Republican, of Iowa, remarked: "It is a crime for congress not to take some action looking to intelligent co-operation for intelligent expending and auditing of money of the people. Let us look at a few other financial jokers in this bill." And then he went on to show some of the expenditures which he claimed were absolutely without justification.

Senator Johnson of South Dakota, a Democrat, said: "I think this is the most extravagant, the worst, and the most ridiculous appropriation bill I have ever seen since I have been a member of the senate."

Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, quite frequently criticized the bill, while Senator Sherman, Republican, of Illinois, several times vigorously attacked its provisions. On one occasion Senator Thomas discussed an appropriation of $120,000 to stimulate the production of poultry. "Poultry is so high," asserted Thomas, "that it is very hard for the traditional dairy to reach the tail of a rooster, even when standing upon stilts. I paid 35 cents for a plate of chicken soup the other day and it only had two feathers in it—just enough to give the liquid the flavor of a chicken."

Former Governor Durbin of Indiana came to Washington and put a spoke in the Roosevelt presidential wheel which was revolving very rapidly up to that time. Durbin had a conference with a number of Republican senators and representatives and he told them very frankly that Roosevelt would not do. It is supposed that he talked to men who sympathized with his views. Durbin suggested that either Senator Weeks of Massachusetts or Governor Lowden of Illinois would make an acceptable candidate and thought they would not fall. Republican strength. Speaking of Roosevelt, he said: "If Roosevelt should run against President Wilson he would be the worst beaten man that ever was a candidate for the presidency." Of course Durbin would modify that somewhat, but it is supposed that he meant since the Republican party was organized. He probably failed to recollect that in 1912 Tilden received only eight electoral votes. It is yet a little too early to have presidential booms get well under way.

The war department has finally found a way to use "conscientious objectors." These objectors are drafted men whose religious beliefs are along the line of peace-at-any-price. Ever since the first draft army officials have been puzzling over the proper way to handle men who honestly believe that all war is wrong. These men refused to drill or carry a rifle or do anything calculated to fit them for killing. Doing chores around the camp, peeling potatoes and the like was given a trial but didn't work. There were plenty of soldiers available for doing that work in their spare time. The method has now been devised by which objectors are furnished and placed on farms as farm laborers. They remain under control of the cantonment commanders and if not actually fighting are doing the next best thing.

The new chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee is a man of a number of titles. Before he came to congress he was Professor Foss, then he became Congressman Foss; now he is Chairman Foss; but he also has a title which is not often used, which is Farmer Foss. The Ohio congressman is one of the most accomplished scholars in the house of representatives. He is also particularly well informed on foreign relations and on all other subjects of national importance. On this account he is always listened to attentively when he addresses the house. He also does farm work when he gets time.

All sorts of questions are asked in the consideration of the water power bill. For instance, quite a number of men are very anxious to know whether or not we are going to destroy Niagara falls, Niagara rapids, and the rapids of the St. Lawrence river. Congressman Humphreys of Mississippi was very much exercised over these questions, more so than New York congressman. ## Proclamation by the President of the United States of America.

Every day the great principles for which we are fighting take fresh hold upon our thought and purpose and make it clearer what the end must be and what we must do to achieve it. We now know more certainly than we ever knew before why free men brought the great nation and government we love into existence, because it grows clearer and clearer what supreme service it is to be America's privilege to render to the world. The anniversary of the discovery of America must therefore have for us in this fateful year a peculiar and thrilling significance. We should make it a day of ardent dedication to the ideals upon which our government is founded and by which our present heroic tasks are inspired.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do appoint Saturday, the 12th day of October, 1918, as Liberty day. On that day I request the citizens of every community of the United States, city, town and countryside, to celebrate the discovery of our country in order to stimulate a generous response to the Fourth Liberty Loan. Commemorative addresses, pageants, harvest home festivals, or other demonstrations should be arranged for in every neighborhood under the general direction of the secretary of the treasury and the immediate direction of the Liberty Loan committee, in co-operation with the United States bureau of education and the public school authorities. Let the people's response to the Fourth Liberty Loan express the measure of their devotion to the ideals which have guided the country from its discovery until now, and of their determined purpose to defend them and guarantee their triumph.

For the purpose of participating in Liberty day celebrations all employees of the federal government throughout the country whose services can be spared may be excused on Saturday, the 12th day of October, for the entire day.

To witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this 10th day of September in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Eighteen, and of the Independence of the United States of America the One Hundred and Forty-third.

WOODROW WILSON.
By the President:
ROBERT LANNING,
Secretary of State.

REVEALS FOES' DIRE STRAITS

German Poster Reproduced by Bureau of Publicity Proof of Shattered Morale of Enemy.

A poster recently issued by the imperial German government in an effort to belittle the participation of America in the war and thus strengthen the morale of her people from the text of one of the most striking pieces of literature for use in the forthcoming Fourth Liberty loan.

The center of the poster is devoted to a drawing showing New York City on one side of the Atlantic and a tremendous explosion on the other side, probably somewhere in France. Two sinking vessels are shown in the line of travel between New York and France, while in the offing are two U-boats securely aloft. "Opportunity for the German U-boats" is the caption for this section of the poster.

The line of travel in which the American sinking boats could be increased is a division a month. The French entrance on this poster was "Does France want wheat or meat?" and the German poster remarks: "Also the allies are now beginning to have their doubts." In a further effort to convince the German people that it will be impossible for the United States to transport troops to France, the German section of the poster says that ten tons of freight space are required for every soldier in crossing the water. The truth is that a soldier requires less than one-half this amount of space.

Summing up all the falsehoods which the German poster contains, the booklet says: "The War Lord of Germany may have the futile hope that his people will devour in the place of food, such statements as the foregoing. Falsehoods, however, are poor substitutes and are likely to aggravate rather than appease when the devoted people of Germany learn that every requirement of the American soldier has been met by his patriotic and unselfish support back home. If a single soldier required ten tons of freight space, it would be given him. But the truth is he requires less than one-half of that."

"As for Germany's statement that even if the United States built from two and a half million gross registered tons in 1918, it would not mean deliverance for the allies, no further comment is needed than that by July of this year the 2,000,000-ton marine fleet has passed. If further refutation of the Hun boast of his U-boat prowess were needed, it might be stated that less than 500 American soldiers have lost their lives in the present war as a result of U-boat attacks."

Closing the booklet is this striking quotation from Secretary McAdoo: "The Fourth Liberty loan is the harbinger which will provide the victorious thrust of our army."

its right hand. In his left hand Uncle Sam carries a banner which bears the inscription, "America threatens to send transport of one-half million men. But it cannot ship them!" Below Uncle Sam are these words: "It is impossible for America to train and fit out in time for the European war a suitable and sufficiently large army and provide it with the necessary reinforcements." The catchline of this section of the poster is "Russia's army of millions could not down Germany." and on the skirt of the Russian soldier's overcoat are printed these words: "Russia used up altogether fifteen million men in vain."

On the opposite side of the poster is this catchline: "England's sea power and England's merchant marine have not decided the war!" Below this line appears a huge figure intended to represent the English shipping facilities at the outbreak of the war, which bears these words: "England went into the war with twenty million gross registered tons of freight space." Alongside this figure of a ship is a drawing designed to show Uncle Sam carrying the United States tonnage under his left arm. The caption above Uncle Sam reads: "Can America replace England on sea?" On the ship which Uncle Sam carries is printed this inscription: "Three million gross registered tons" and below that is another inscription which says: "At the beginning of the war America had only a tonnage of three million gross registered tons." Commenting on these statements, the poster further declares: "America cannot increase her gross registered tons for 1918 by more than two to two and a half million tons. Our U-boats sink twice as quickly as England and America can build."

The answer of the publicity bureau to the two sections of the poster referring to the transportation of men and the building of ships follows: "At the moment the bulletin boards of Germany showed the possibility of America sending a force to France, there were already more than a million fighting men overseas, and transports, walked about by the American navy, defying the cowardly submarines, were bearing every month hundreds of thousands more. The gauge is set and the summer of 1919 will see 4,000,000 fighting American men in France. Nor will there be a lack of ships to transport and sustain them. The Liberty Bond buyer is fast giving to America a merchant marine which will be the largest in any in the world. America launched in July alone 65,000 tons. Losses to allied and neutral shipping combined, from every cause, for the last six months, amounted to 2,082,303 tons."

"The distance from New York to England, the Boche points out," comments the bureau of publicity pamphlet, "is two hundred times greater than that from England to France, from which he spells 'opportunity' for the German U-boats. This is the distance in miles of the task. Instead of the U-boat being an unconquerable engine of war, as the Hun confidently expected, it has become the sinking of fishing smacks and other inferior craft. The vast army of Liberty Bond buyers, thirty millions strong, has built an unbroken bridge over the Atlantic ocean into the heart of the enemy's strongholds. Across this bridge there are streaming our millions of fighting men, as good as in France in any way, with munitions and equipment that have been wrought by those back home, whose determination is that the American fighting man shall lack nothing that he needs."

As a back-handed slap at the French, the German propagandists have reproduced a French poster which pleads with French people to eat less in order that the United States may send over more man power. The French poster pointed out that if every person in France would save a hundred grams of food a day, the American requirement would be increased a division a month. The French catchline on this poster was "Does France want wheat or meat?" and the German poster remarks: "Also the allies are now beginning to have their doubts."

In a further effort to convince the German people that it will be impossible for the United States to transport troops to France, the German section of the poster says that ten tons of freight space are required for every soldier in crossing the water. The truth is that a soldier requires less than one-half this amount of space.

Summing up all the falsehoods which the German poster contains, the booklet says: "The War Lord of Germany may have the futile hope that his people will devour in the place of food, such statements as the foregoing. ### RICE FLOUR TO SAVE WHEAT

The Rice Is Made From Highly Milled Table Rice and From Broken Grains.

HELP MEET NEED OF SUBSTITUTES

Rice Flour Being Used in Manufacture of Bread, Cookies, Cakes and Waffles.

GOOD GOVERNMENT RECIPES

Now Being Made in Large Quantities to Save Wheat—Whiteness Makes It Particularly Useful to Baker and Caterer.

Rice flour, which before the war shortage was used only by caterers and bakers in small amounts, is now being manufactured in larger quantities to help meet the need of wheat substitutes.

The whiteness of rice flour makes it particularly useful to the baker and caterer, and in the effort to save wheat housewives are learning to use this product in breads, cakes, and cookies alone or combined with other substitutes.

The recipes which follow have been tested in the experimental kitchen of the department of agriculture, office of home economics, and the United States food administration, home conservation section.

Rice Flour Waffles.
1 1/2 cups rice flour 1/2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt 3 tablespoons melted butter
3 tablespoons baking powder 2 eggs
Sift the dry ingredients together and add slowly to the milk, beaten egg yolks, and melted fat. Fold in stiffly beaten whites and cook in hot well-greased waffle iron.

Shortcake.
1 1/2 cups rice flour 4 tablespoons shortening
3 tablespoons baking powder 1 egg
1 teaspoon salt 1 cup milk
Mix as you would muffins, bake in layer cake tin, split, and butter while hot. Put a layer of sweetened berries or other fresh fruit between the halves and on top.

Chocolate Nut Cookies.
1/2 cup corn sirup 4 tablespoons barley flour
2 tablespoons rice flour 4 tablespoons baking powder
2 squares chocolate 1 egg
10 tablespoons rice 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

This sponge cake can serve as the basis for many desserts. Bake as a loaf cake or in muffin molds. Baked in a thin sheet, spread with soft jelly, and rolled it makes a delicious jelly roll. Serve with a sauce.

Bake in layers and fill with custard filling for a Martha Washington pie or use for a shortcake with fresh fruit between the layers.

1/2 cup rice flour 1/2 cup barley flour
1/2 cup rice flour 1/2 cup rice flour
Mix and bake in muffin molds for cup cakes or in layers or loaf. If baked in layers, a lemon filling is good with it.

Variation.—For chocolate cake, add two squares of chocolate to the above recipe.

For spice cake, add one teaspoonful cinnamon, half teaspoonful nutmeg, and one teaspoonful spice.

Quick Nut Bread.
1 cup milk 1/2 cup mashed potato

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Use other fats as far as possible instead of butter in cooking.

It is a dangerous thing to seal a wound with any application, that keeps the air out, until you are sure all the poison is out.

Remember that a little carelessness about the baby's food may result in a serious illness or worse.

A coffee pot should not be of tin. Tinned metal acts on this metal and makes a poisonous compound.

To prevent smelly food like salmon, cabbage and onions from scenting the ice box or the cupboard place it in glass jars and partly screw down the cover. Wrapping a covered dish in oiled paper will also prevent odors and keep the food fresh.

When silver has become discolored with egg, dip a damp cloth in salt water and rub the silver, the stain will disappear.

Keep folded newspapers handy upon which to place soiled pots and pans and save cleaning smutty marks from the tables.

Make a sponge of all the ingredients except the rice and barley flour. The potatoes used should be freshly washed with no fat or milk added. The water in which they are cooked can be used for the liquid. Let this sponge stand in a warm place until very light. If dry yeast is used, set the sponge two night before it is needed.

Add rice flour and barley flour when the sponge is light. Knead and let rise until double in bulk. Knead again, form into loaf and allow to rise until bulk is again doubled. Brush over the top of loaf with melted fat before putting it to rise.

day night outlining the government's plan for the campaign, which starts next Saturday.

The share allotted to the New York federal reserve district is $1,800,000, or 30 per cent of the loan. The share allotted to the Chicago district is 14 1/2 per cent, or $870,000,000. The Boston and Philadelphia quotas are $500,000,000 each and Cleveland is to raise $600,000,000.

The loan, which will bear 4 1/2 per cent interest, will run for 30 years, maturing October 15, 1938, unless the government should exercise its reserved right to redeem the bonds on or after October 15, 1933.

Asserting that, without the vast sum
"we cannot lick the Kaiser," Mr.
McAdoo made a special appeal for the subscriptions of corporations and wealthy individuals, as returns from the third Liberty loan indicated that wealthy corporations and persons of large means had not responded "commensurately with their abilities to help."

He pointed out that of the $3,000,000, Americans who subscribed for the first loan, only 22,500 including corporations, bought bonds in excess of $10, 000.

"It would be preposterous," he said,
"to say that there are only 22,500 men, women and corporations in America able to lend more than $10,000 each to their government in Liberty bonds."

Applauded by a crowd which filled
Carnegie hall, Mr. McAdoo said, in part:

"The treasury of the United States asks the American people to subscribe to the fourth Liberty loan, $6,000,000, 000. This money is needed to carry on the war. We cannot lick the Kaiser without it. We cannot restore peace to the world and re-establish liberty and democracy without it.

"We are building a great merchant marine. Upon completion it will be the largest, most efficient and modern merchant fleet in the world. The money used for this purpose is an investment of immeasurable value to the American people."

Asserting that "everybody should buy bonds," Mr. McAdoo continued:
"I was asked not long ago what arguments could be made for the fourth Liberty loan. I replied immediately,
"Persuading and our heroes in France."
No other argument is necessary.

"What we must do in America is to keep the pressure high. Now that we have the Kaiser and his brutal hordes on the run, let us not relax effort but intensity effort. Keep hitting hard and smashing harder. That is the way to win surely and quickly. That is the way to eliminate the Kaiser; that is the way to open an American parade on Center Street."

"No man can shirk his duty without incurring the just reprobation of public opinion. The acid test will be applied and the shirker, whether from military service or in the field of labor or in the ranks of the wealthy, will be united to withstand the finger of scorn which will be unerringly pointed at him."

2 TURK ARMIES WIPED OUT

British Forces Under Gen. Allenby
Trap 40,000 Ottoman Troops in Palestine and Take 25,000
Captives.

Paris, Sept. 25.—French, Serbian, British, Italian and Greek armies all continued to advance against the Bulgars and Germans in Macedonia, according to dispatches received from the front on Monday night. The enemy has been forced to evacuate the whole line from Dolan to a point west of the Vardar river.

Entente allied cavalry was three miles from the Bulgarian frontier in the region of Strumitza, according to latest reports. The Eleventh German division was reported to have been cut from the main Bulgarian army and to be retreating in disorder.

The First Bulgarian army in the region of Monastir and Drilip has been cut off from communication with the Second army in the Dobruja sector.

The Franco-Serbian troops are pursuing the Bulgarian army, which is in full retreat. The entente allies now command the mountain zone, from which they will be able to debouch in the plains. According to the dispatch, the Serbians have already captured between 9,000 and 10,000 prisoners and 120 guns.

than seven miles in pursuit of the Germans and Bulgarians and have taken 10 villages and numerous prisoners, ac-

As the result of the heavy pressure of the entente allied forces, the enemy has evacuated the whole line from Dolan to a point west of the Vardar.

Serbian troops have cut the main railway line between Uskub and Salonika, and are on the western bank of the Palestine front indicate that none of the Turkish force of at least 40,000 men trapped by the British through the seizure of the last of the passages of the Jordan can possibly get away.

Virtually the entire Turkish force is or will be accounted for in killed, wounded and prisoners. The British stragglers are being found wandering lost in the mountainous country aimlessly, without a leader or a purpose.

REVENUE BILL PASSED BRITISH BEAT TURKS

LARGEST MEASURE IN HISTORY
APPROVED BY HOUSE.

Designed to Raise $8,182,000,000 of $24,000,000,000 Needed for Year.

Washington, Sept. 23.—By unanimous vote, the house on Friday passed the $8,182,000,000 revenue bill, the greatest tax measure in history. The roll call showed 350 members voting for the bill and not one against it.

The unanimous approval given this bill, which constitutes one of the most important features of the government's program for winning the war next year, was regarded as further evidence that the American people are united as never before in the determination to spurn all compromise with the Hun and go through to a decisive victory over Prussian militarism, no matter how great the national sacrifice.

In bringing down the revenue bill to an end, Representative Longworth of Ohio declared that the $8,000, 000,000 revenue bill was the best answer yet to "Austria's whining peace plan."

"This will be good news for the allies and cold comfort for the Kaiser," Mr. Longworth said. "It will show the Hun that we are not only united in our determination to win, but that we are also united in our determination to win by the most efficient means."

The British losses were surprisingly slight, considering the importance of the advance.

CARRYING WAR to the PEOPLE

MODEL POULTRY HOUSE SHOWN BY BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

Various Government Departments Unite in Preparing Elaborate Exhibits for State Fairs and Expositions.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The United States government has combined its traveling displays of public work and is to exhibit them so as better to inform the people concerning the work of their government toward winning the war. The combined display is a war show from beginning to end, for every activity of the government now has a bearing, more or less direct, on the one national aim of preserving peace for the world. Thus, not only will the vital interest in the exhibits of the war and navy departments, but in the work of the department of agriculture in stimulating increased production of food; the activities of the food administration in encouraging the conservation and equitable distribution of this fundamental war resource; the addition of new food sources through the bureau of fisheries of the department of commerce; the safeguarding of human life and indirectly increasing of food production through the work of the mine rescue corps of the bureau of mines, department of interior; and the spreading of official news through the committee on public information.

The joint committee on government exhibits, which acts for the various departments in administering the displays and is headed as chairman by F. Lamson-Schier of the department of agriculture, has contracted for the exhibits to be shown simultaneously on five circuits of approximately 25 state fairs and expositions from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Organization of five circuits does not mean that any one circuit is being favored or discriminated against in the quantity or quality of displays. The government exhibit material is of such magnitude that no fair has been able to offer more space than can be filled. The army and navy exhibits have been made up in five duplicate sets. In fact, practically the only variations of note in the displays are in those of the department of agriculture, which has planned, in addition to its exhibits of general interest, displays of particular importance for specific regions. For instance, where wheat-growing is all-absorbing, wheat will be featured, and where cattle fever tick is sucking blood and destroying men, special emphasis will be placed on the fight to rid American territory of this parasite.

The government exhibits have much to detain even the busy curious, but informing the people of government work and of important aid which the public can render the government in the national crisis is the big aim. All exhibits are educational and those of purely technical interest are rarely used. Displays are the product of years of experience in exposition methods and every effort is made to visualize subjects in such manner that observers will be informed as well as entertained.

To list and describe adequately every item in the exhibits would require many words. Features selected here and there, however, may serve to give an idea of the complete show.

The war department display can hardly fail to place Americans more closely in touch with their boys who are making more uneasy the heads that wear the crowns. There are Browning machine guns for infantry use and Lewis machine guns of the aircraft type; figures clothed in regulation uniforms, including an aviator's flying goggles; rifles of the latest model used "over there," and wooden blocks showing penetration of the old and new bullets; complete equipment of the beloved "doughboy," and a trench periscope through which he watches for friskiness on the part of the "Fritzies"; gas masks that he dons when the Hun spreads his favorite poison; the trench helmet that protects him and the hand grenades he hurls; the shovel with which he digs a trench and the pump that takes out the water.

Then there are models of the various kinds of tents used by the army, national and regimental colors in silk, storm and post flags, a portable field wireless outfit, heliograph instruments, lanterns for night signaling, day and night rockets and signal flags.

And if any American hasn't learned yet to distinguish a sergeant major from a brigadier general, he can do so from boards which carry the insignia of officers and the chevrons of enlisted men, with the wound and service chevrons authorized for officers and men serving in France.

The navy display shows more of the tools that are making this world an unsafe place for international burglars, and also some rifles captured from German soldiers. The navy shows a depth of charge of the kind whose bubbles often mean the end for some submarine pirate; a naval mine and anchor, and a big torpedo with its trunk. Projects of various sizes are accompanied by models that airplanes drop. The clothing display includes some worn in winter weather by the boys abroad our submarines.

Trimpets, drums, rifles, swords, flags and pennants are some of the other things shown. But it is expected that nowhere will the crowds be thicker than around the models of modern battleships, dreadnaughts, cruisers, destroyers and other vessels that will be shown at all the fairs and expositions.

The scope of work of the department of agriculture is so wide and the quantity of its exhibit material is so great that its displays vary in different sections of the country, but in every case they have been selected to elicit some reason why American agricultural production must be increased, and again increased, and to show some of the numerous ways by which it can be done. These exhibits are not for the farmer alone. They are for him first, but food production has become the business and concern of everybody in America, and nearly everybody has come to know it. More than that, the agricultural exhibits are attractive, interesting and informing enough to hold the attention of even the novice who cannot tell a silo from a silo.

The weather bureau shows how it is able to forecast storms, frosts and floods to protect agriculture, commerce and navigation, and displays its daily weather map showing conditions in the immediate vicinity of the exhibition. The bureau of animal industry shows how to improve and increase the country's supplies of meat, milk and poultry, how it guards the health of the public and our soldiers and sailors through its meat inspection system, and how to drive out the destructive animal diseases that annually take a toll of great worth many millions of dollars. That other great co-ordinated branch of the department of agriculture, the bureau of plant industry, treats its field in the same manner, with special attention to methods of bettering and stimulating plant production and eradicating plant diseases.

Broad features of forest service work are presented in popular and striking form. Models reveal the burning of local fuel wood to release coal for cities and war purposes and relieve transportation, contrast proper methods of logging with the wasteful ways, and show the proper handling of tree windbreaks for increasing crop and animal production. Other forest service displays show how forest fires are prevented or discovered and fought; how valuable timber can be saved for war uses; and the need of retaining forests to retard soil erosion on slopes.

Distinctive exhibits of the bureau of chemistry illustrate the enforcement of the food and drug act, production and preservation of food products, use of tanning materials, production of colors and other chemical industries. Differences between true and imitation commercial articles are shown, and light is thrown on adulterated or mislabeled medicinal preparations, including headache "remedies," "beauty" preparations, asthma, consumption and other alleged "cures."

Samplings of the soils that occur in the United States, including some local to the neighborhood of particular exhibition, together with information relating to their best use in farming, are among the bureau of soils displays. The states relations service shows its work in cooperation with the state agricultural colleges, in spreading farming information through county agents, home demonstration agents and boys' and girls' clubs, and illustrates food conservation by canning and drying.

The bureau of entomology's exhibits of destructive insects and ways of combating them are particularly interesting at this time of need for more food production and conservation. Likewise, the bureau of biological survey's displays of the control of animals and birds, representing the control of destruction of the predatory species and the conservation of the desirable kinds, take added significance. Demands on the railways, with growing use of motor routes, stress the importance of the good-roads construction and maintenance exhibits of the office of public roads and rural engineering, and war conditions also lend interest to the bureau of markets' display of safe methods of shipping grain, distribution of farm products, grain standards and cotton standards, and various types of shipping containers.

Agriculture has been called the most peaceful industry in the world, but it is believed that the department's displays will remove any question as to efficient farming being absolutely essential in an effective war machine.

But America must not feed itself alone. It must sustain millions of the citizens and fighting men of our valiant allies. The food administration, in its exhibits, drives that fact deep. Feature displays are decorative panels contributed by representative American illustrators to illustrate twelve points in a recent speech by Herbert Hoover, food administrator.

The purpose, scope and accomplishments of the food administration, the situation with which it is dealing, and work being done by the home conservation department are shown.

The bureau of fisheries of the department of commerce has displays to urge the utilization of fishery products now used little or not at all, but that are available to help supply the demand for meat. Samples and posters of white, shark, grayfish, sardines, catfish, turbot, drums, tilapia, skates and rays represent some of the dining table strangers shown.

The fisheries exhibit also display tanned skins of aquatic animals—and most people know that leather is valuable now—with a demonstration of pearl button manufacture, one of the industries that Germany dominated before the war.

Programs of moving pictures creating many war-time themes are shown in connection with the fighting front and in camp, farmers striving for bigger crops in the country; methods of conserving as well as increasing the food supply; views of beautiful landscapes in the national parks; reclamation of arid lands, highway construction and other activities, many of them in direct relation to winning the war.

At every fair where the combined exhibits are displayed, the Four-Minute Men—the volunteer speakers who are fighting disloyal propaganda and urging undisturbed public support for every war movement—gather in state convocations. They speak the regulation four minutes between the official motion pictures, and assist the soldiers and sailors and department representatives in explaining displays. The Four-Minute Men have headquarters at fairs unattended by the committee on public information.

At a number of the fairs where truckage facilities can be provided in or near the grounds, one of the nine rescue cars of the bureau of mines, department of the interior, will be open to the public. Full crews of five men will be on duty to explain the intricate rescue apparatus.

Japan and the Cherry Blossom

No flower has entered Japanese history, literature, art and religious thought longer or more richly than our sakura or Japanese cherry. It was only natural, therefore, that foreign visitors to this country began to call it the land of cherry blossoms and that we have chosen sakura as our national flower by common consent. Our army has adopted the national ideal of always being ready to die for a cause, after the manner of sakura, which falls in the height of autumn glory and human admiration without the slightest desire to linger in the world below.—From Herald of Asia.

JUGGLERS OF HEARTS.

Probably the world's marrying record for men was created by that notorious blagmaster, George Wilcox, whose marriages have been estimated at about 800. In the space of a single week he went through marriage ceremonies with ten women.

An amazing matrimonial record, too, was that of a certain John Watson. This "Juggler of hearts" became acquainted with the eight daughters of a lawyer. Within a year he had gone through a form of marriage with each of the eight sisters, and had succeeded in deceiving with their savings.

THOSE WAR TERMS.

One of the rear-end-of-the-street-car regulars boarded the car at its accustomed corner after an absence of about two weeks. He was looking "peaked" and one of his friends asked: "Where have you been for a couple of weeks, Brown?" "Oh, I had a slight touch of pneumonia," Brown answered.

"Touch!" said the first speaker; "looks to me like you might have had a direct hit!"

MAN OF MYSTERY KEEPS SECRET

Half-Breed Dies Without Revealing Method of Recovering the Dead.

GETS DROWNED BODIES

Always Worked at Night, Possessed an Uncanny Power and Succeeded Where All Other Methods Had Failed.

Stillwater, Minn.—John Jeremy, a mysterious character, who for 42 years made his living by recovering the bodies of persons drowned in lakes and rivers of the northwest, ended his career recently by committing suicide after he had shot and killed an acquaintance in a quarrel over a woman. Jeremy, who was seventy-two years old and a resident of this place, died without disclosing his uncanny method of bringing bodies to the surface.

One of his notable feats took place shortly before his death when he recovered the body of Miss Helen Learned of St. Paul, who was drowned in Lake Minnetonka several weeks previously. The lake bed had been raked scores of times and hope had been abandoned when "fisherman John," as Jeremy was known, announced that he would find the body. Within a short time he had succeeded and collected $100 for his work.

Liked Starlight for His Work. Jeremy worked alone and always at night. He liked a starry sky, but the rays of a full moon seemed to hamper rather than aid him. Some persons who for years had studied the peculiarities of Jeremy, who was a half-breed, claimed he used trained muskrats to locate the missing corpses. Others claimed he knew the freakish twists and turns of the river and lake currents so well that he needed no other aid.

"Fisherman John" began his unique profession in 1876. His efficiency soon attracted the attention of the entire northwest and he received large sums for the recovery of many of the bodies.

Worked Alone and Always at Night.

He was present on several occasions when persons sank and brought them to the surface so quickly that their lives were saved. Twenty-three of his recoveries were made from the Mississippi river and he was credited with a total of 104 bodies taken from waters of the northwest.

BAD LUCK FOLLOWS WOMAN

Dog Is Hit by Automobile and After That Things Move Rapidly.

St. Louis.—Mrs. Louis Sedler of this city started for the grocery store and her canine went along. She had gone but a short distance when her dog was hit by an automobile. She tried to pick up her pet and was bitten in the right hand.

The police in the usual course of events learned of the accident. They ordered the dog chained up for ten days for observation. Then they ordered Mrs. Sedler to see the city bacteriologist regarding her wound. As a climax they filed a charge of "harboring an unlicensed dog" against her husband.

LAD FINANCES DEAL AT TEN

"Get-Rich-Quick" Youth in St. Louis Works Confidence Game on Companions.

St. Louis.—A boy ten years old, of this city, obtained small sums of money from other children here upon convincing them that he knew a man who had the power of increasing the denomination of money. The boy has been arrested and turned over to his parents, who promised to return the money he obtained and will have him in the juvenile court when desired.

Sew on a Hand.

Shamokin, Pa.—Holding a block of wood which his brother was chopping with a double-bladed ax, James Conates slipped and plunged forward just as the ax was swung. His right wrist was caught and the hand severed within an inch. The hanging hand was bound back in place and he was rushed to the State hospital, where surgeons sutured it back into its proper position and are making a determined effort to re-establish circulation to save it.

Steals 50,000 Cigars.

Indianapolis, Ind.—When Charles B. Ward of Toledo, O., was arraigned in criminal court here charged with grand larceny he admitted that he stole 50,000 cigars from William T. Eisenlohr. He was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $100 and costs.

Thieves Steal Hair.

AMERICAN RUNNERS PUT ON WEIGHT ABROAD

PARTICIPATED IN INTERALLIED MATCH IN PARIS.

According to Sporting Chronicle, the American relay team, which ran second to the French team in an interallied match in Paris, consisted of Jack Eller, Ted Meredith, Tommy Lennon and Kline of Minnesota. The French team had George Andre, the famous all-round athlete; Tissier, Rendon and Lieutenant Gauthier.

The Frenchmen must be fliers or the Americans were overweight. It is said Lennon has put on pounds overseas.

Eddie wants to get in the service and get in right so he chose the marines because he believed that to be the branch of service where he would get plenty of action, and would suit his spirit.

GAME STOPPED FOR ANTHEM

Exciting Contest at Fort Slocum Halted With Bases Full and Batter Makes Long Hit.

The unexpected becomes the commonplace for the boys in olive drab, yet remains the unexpected for civilians. A recent close and exciting baseball game at Fort Slocum was halted for two or three minutes with the bases full and just as the batter had struck what was safe for a two-bagger, and was halfway down to first base. It was "retreat" at sundown, when the flag is hoisted down. As it descended and the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" the batter halted halfway to first. The men on bases who had started for home also stopped and the outfielder let the ball fall where it would. As the first note broke out every player sprang to attention, faced the flag and stood at salute until the last note of the anthem was blown away. The game was then resumed. The same sight may be seen at almost any camp.

GRIDIRON GAME AND WAR ARE COMPARED

Football and Military Tactics on Western Front Alike.

In Allied Drive Show Massed Movement Toward Center, Same as Worked in Football.

War is like football, according to Louis Lee Arms in New York Sun. There is an interesting similarity between football and military tactics, as there should be, since each is to gain ground. In the allied drive between Soissons and Reims military maps show a massed movement toward the center, precisely as would be done in football were one of the backs to make an off-tackle thrust.

The American troops in the center of the rush line and starting at Bellean and La Chappelle have driven a wedge into the German line and carried it before them in a manner that could be likened to a cover and two guards putting their opponents out of play.

In military advances there is none to come behind carrying the ball, but if there were, as the lines exist today, the backfield of the Franco-American troops could make an unbroken end run off the flanks right end, through Harbontown, Villeneuve, Chaumont and Perment, for the German ends have been boxed in. It would be up to the defensive full or quarterback, which is represented by the Kaiser's troops further back, to stop the runner.

Our allies are commenting upon the intelligent manner in which Americans tactically conduct their attack. Well, General Pershing is a pop-eyed football fan!

One-Time Champion Oarsman, Now Past 70 Mark, Wants to Row Any Man in World.

Jim Riley, whose name was famous 40 years ago in the rowing world, is out with another challenge. The one-time champion, now past the seventy mark, although he looks hardly more than sixty, will row any oarsman in the world who is sixty-seven years or older any distance from one to three miles. He won't concede any handicaps, but he will take all canners, and so confident is he that he can defeat anyone who tries to row against him that he will put up the cup which he particularly anxious to meet Jim Ten Eyck, the older who was coach of the Syracuse university crews up until a few months ago, and is now engaged in a similar capacity at the Duluth Boat club.

TEXAS LEAGUER "SNICK"

English sports writers have been having a hard time trying to learn American nomenclature. But they have courage. They already have begun helping us out.

Look what they have dubbed a "Texas leaguer." That name means nothing, absolutely nothing to them. Indeed, some of them think Texas is still the abode of ferocious savages. But they have gone and called the "Texas leaguer" a "snick."

Barry's Close Call.

Ernest Barry, world's champion sculler, had a close call recently. While out for a spin on the Thames he was seized with cramps, his boat capsized and but for prompt aid from friends on the shore would have drowned. Barry is in the British army, to which the American Y. M. C. A. has recently been requested to detail physical directors.

New Job for Johnson.

In addition to his duties as president of the American League, John Johnson is acting as a purchasing agent for baseball equipment for soldiers for the Red Cross and in the past month he has negotiated for over $100,000 worth of supplies, as Red Cross co-missioner.

Barrow Wants to Go Over.

Manfred Ed Barrow of the Red Sox has announced that he wants to go to France to do some sort of welfare work, if it can be arranged.

Interesting Gleanings

Mrs. Mary Hazenstuh of Meyers, Blair county, who is in her one hundredth year, is the purchaser of a $100 Liberty bond. She is a native of Germany and cannot speak English. She conversed with the collector through one of her daughters, the youngest of whom is aged seventy-three. She promised after receiving the money from the sale of her farm that she would purchase additional Liberty bonds.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ashton, age seventy-six, enjoys the distinction of being the champion knitter of Northumberland county, Pennsylvania. Despite her age, she averages a pair of socks a day, and since the beginning of America's participation in the war has sent 250 pairs of socks and six sweaters to the soldiers in France.

Honors now being paid to women war workers here and abroad recall the action of General Joseph B. Johnston, who once paraded 30,000 of his troops in a special review given to honor of Mrs. Sallie Chapman Law, the famous army nurse.

Bloody angle was a term applied to a position in the battlefield of Gettysburg, taken and held during several hours of hand fighting by troops commanded by Gen. Daniel E. Sickles. Shortly before the battle ended a shell shattered General Sickles' knee, but he buckled a strap around his leg and remained on his horse until the last shot was fired. That night his leg was amputated.

The armor of the motor cars used in the present war ranges from three-sixteenths to a quarter of an inch in thickness and is impervious to rifle and machine-gun fire.

John Andre, the British spy, who was mixed up with Benedict Arnold in his treason plot, was condemned by a military court as a spy and was hanged at Tappan, on the Hudson river, October 2, 1780, and buried here. The British army went into mourning for him. A monument was erected to his memory in Westminster abbey and in 1821 his body was exhumed and re-buried thither.

Prominent members of the Trades and Labor council and the board of trade in Vancouver, B. C., have formed a committee as a court of appeal and conciliation board to avert strikes, if possible.

The local trades council has made a strong protest against the proposal to employ women as street car drivers in a West-Midland (England) district.

Pulling back the handles of a new motorcycle stops it, by disengaging the clutch, throttling the engine and applying the brakes.

Southwestern France has deposits of iron ore that were exploited as far back as the time of the Roman occupation and which still yield some of the purest minerals found in that country.

The Swiss federal council has decreed the adoption of 24-hour time for railroads and other institutions under government control at a date yet to be determined.

It has been figured by geographers that the earth is thickest along an imaginary line drawn from the top of Chimborazo, a mountain in Ecuador, to a point on the coast of Sumatra, where the land is fairly high.

In order to prevent damage to circular saws and danger to workmen it has been found advisable to give all logs which come to a sawmill a thorough spraying with sharp jets of water. This removes bits of rock or gravel before the logs go to the saw.

Joel Moses, named for state engineer on the Socialist ticket in New York state, explained that he could not take the nomination, as he was not an engineer but a tailor. The convention said that wouldn't make any difference.—Exchange.

How Old Is an Angel of Mercy?

The secretary of war, having in mind all that he had heard about the transcendental brow stroking and pillow smoothing functions of the ladies, wrote to General Pershing, propounding the question: How old is an angel of mercy? At least, so, says New York Medical Journal, which furthermore reports and comments upon the fact that General Pershing replied, "Twenty-five or over," so that, now there is a rule preventing girls to their most angelic age from becoming angels of mercy in France.

"This newspaper is a member of the Wisconsin Patriotic Press Association and pledges its uncompromising loyalty to our government in this war."

SEVERAL SHADES OF BROWN COLOR
It seems in this conflict election there are several shades of brown, especially among the congressmen, and while the voters are not particularly against this color under ordinary circumstances, they do object to it when it has become so faded out and begins to border on the yellow. This is what some of the republicans say is the matter with Mr. Edward B. Brown, who for a number of years past has been representing this district in Congress down at Washington, and they seem to be determined to get Mr. Brown out of the political shelf and substitute for him a Mr. Brown who is running for congress on the democratic ticket.

There are some men in the country, mostly politicians, who would rather see each man elected than to win the war. These are men who are republicans and democrats for revenue only, but all of them are in that way, for there are others who are for winning the war first, and then looking after political matters afterwards. These latter men are from Americans who have in their hearts the welfare of America above all things, and they are men who are working for the good of their country and not for their own particular good.

A number of republicans from this neck of the woods held a meeting at Stevens Point last week. So far as we can learn they were mostly all republicans, although there may have been democrats in the lot, and from what they had to say right out in the meeting Edward B. Brown was not going to receive much support from these gentlemen and they are not all afraid to say so. Among the other things done at the meeting there were some resolutions passed concerning Mr. Brown, of which the following is a copy:

"Resolved, that republicans and democrats of the Eighth congressional district of Wisconsin, in conference assembled at the city of Stevens Point, this 25th day of September, 1918, for the purpose of considering, regardless of political affiliations, which candidate for representative in congress in said district should receive the support of loyal voters of said district, do hereby declare it to be the sentiment of the conference that E. B. Brown, the candidate on the republican ticket, has by his record in congress forfeited the right to claim the support of the loyal voters of the Eighth congressional district; that all voters of the said Eighth congressional district, regardless of party, should support and vote for John W. Brown, the democratic candidate, whose Americanism and loyalty are unquestioned."

"Stevens Point, Wis., Sept. 25, 1918."

SCANDINAVIANS NOW SAY THAT ALLIES WILL WIN
"Norway, and indeed all of the Scandinavian countries, have an unbounded admiration for the spirit of America as evinced in the war."

So says Lauris S. Swenson, formerly United States minister to Denmark and now a banker of Minneapolis, who came back to America from Christiania a short time ago and told, in an interview in the New York Times, of a growing conviction among the Scandinavian people that the Allies would win the war.

"They are deeply impressed by the fact that we went into the war and that we have shown such a unanimity of purpose in fighting for democracy that the people of that America is fighting for the ideals of freedom and all that it implies, is what has impressed the Scandinavians. One of their leading public men told me it had come to them as a genuine revelation."

"The Norwegians are people of strong democratic principles, and so are all the Scandinavians except a small remnant of the pro-German element, and their eyes are now turned toward America as never before. They fully recognize that we are bound to be a great factor in the war."

"Up to a few months ago, Norway and the other Scandinavian countries were on the doubtful side regarding the outcome of the war. That doubt has practically vanished. They are amazed at the rapidity with which more than 1,000,000 American soldiers have been transported to Europe."

Dear Brother Beekeeper: You may or may not have been one of those so unfortunate as not to have secured a crop of honey this season. In either case you will want to prepare for next season's work and Mr. H. L. McMurry of the U. S. Department of Bee Culture has been stationed in Wisconsin and Minnesota to help us with this work. Mr. McMurry is an experienced beekeeper and will no doubt be able to give some valuable information. We will take up a special topic on the preparation of bees for winter both out of doors and in the cellar. This is a problem which is of great importance to every beekeeper in the state. He will also discuss the manipulation of bees in the spring to get them ready for the honey flow. Meetings will be held at Grand Rapids on October 5 at the Wood County Normal and Agricultural school at 10 A. M. and 2 P. M. Please notify your brother beekeepers.

Yours truly yours,

"Everything my little 12-year-old girl ate distressed her; even a glass of water would cause her to hunch gas and she was unable to go to school for nearly a year. I bought her a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy, and since taking it she is eating us out of house and home and is attending school again." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Don't Be a Coal Waster

WAR needs require this year 100 million tons more than our normal coal production—production can be increased only 50 million tons. That leaves 50 million tons that must be saved, unless war industries are to be hampered or countless persons made to suffer. Everyone wants to do his part. You can do your full share in saving coal by equipping your house with

Storm Windows and Storm Doors

They increase the comfort and healthfulness of your house by eliminating cold floor drafts, by making it possible to keep the house warm in the severest winter weather, and by permitting perfect ventilation. Houses protected by storm windows and storm doors require from one-third to one-half less coal. You can easily figure what that means to you in dollars and cents. The saving in coal in one or two seasons will pay for the cost of the storm windows and doors.

There is no better way to save coal and keep your family comfortable and healthy. And to think that it is a paying investment! We can give you complete information and give you an estimate of what it will cost to equip all or a portion of your house. See us now so that your house will not be a coal waster this winter.

Pays for Itself in Better Crops

Even if you have only a small farm the New Idea Spreader will make you enough money to pay for itself and give you a profit besides. Scientists and experiment stations have determined that the value of manure is from $8 to $10 per animal. Ordinarily half of this is lost through absorption in the barnyard and through improper spreading with a fork. Save this half by using a New Idea Spreader and you'll save $300 to $400 a year even on an 80 acre farm—more on a larger place.

That's why you should increase your profits by spreading with the

NEW IDEA
Registered U.S. Pat. Off.

Spreads 7 Feet—Across 3 Corn Rows

The wide spreading New Idea saves you half a mile of travel per acre. It spreads beyond the wagon tracks and you don't have to drive over the spread manure. It spreads uniformly and the spread can be varied 3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18 loads per acre merely by pushing a lever. The double cylinders and distributor take two whacks at the manure. Every particle goes onto the ground—none left to freeze or rot. There is no danger of clogging so the New Idea can be loaded as high as the ordinary wagon box. Strong chain conveyor brings the manure unfailingly to cylinders. Cannot slip from under load and will not race going up hill. Chain drive—no gears to freeze, break or strip. Power to conveyor and spreader mechanism is derived direct from rear axle—no side strain or lost power.

The New Idea is made by spreader specialists with more than 16 years experience, who have the confidence to back their machine with a 1 year guarantee on workmanship and material. We unhesitatingly recommend it.

See This Spreader
Let us show you how it works and you'll understand why we're so enthusiastic about the New Idea. It costs you nothing to investigate and you will not be urged to buy against your will.

Special Book FREE
When you come in be sure you ask for a free copy of "Helping Mother Nature" a special book which has been prepared by the manufacturers. This is not a catalog, but a book of information on the proper use of the New Idea. It is to get the best results. This book is really worth money, but we'll give you a copy free if you'll call at the store.

Scuse Me, Mamma.

Ruth is just three years old. Recently she has been playing with the neighborhood children, and has learned to use words which until then had been foreign to her vocabulary. The other day she was on her back porch. The screen door came to with a bang, tipping over the chair in which were her playthings. "Darn!" she exploded, wrathfully. Immediately her mother, who had heard the expression, came to the porch. "What did you say, Ruth?" she demanded.

Ruth looked up from the scattered playthings and smiled her most alluring smile. "Scuse me, mamma," she returned.

Jerusalem to Gaza by Rail.

The modern Ethiopian travels from Jerusalem to Gaza on the way to his home country for the Nile by rail. Reports from Palestine indicate that since the British occupation of the country (Gaza), the chief city of the Philistines in Old Testament days, and the scene of Samson's exploits, has become an important railroad center, the broad-gauge railway having been extended from Gaza to a point 50 miles to the northwest, and the old Turkish line from Ludd to Jerusalem, as well as the recently constructed branch line from Gaza to Sidi Barrani, has been restored and is now in operation.—Rochester Post Express.

Odds Too Much Against Her.

My little daughter Margery plays all day long in the open air. She is careful for a youngster and a few days ago I noticed that she played nearly all day long in the house with her dolls. Presumably that she had a reason for staying in the house, and just to try out a suspicion I entertained that she had been in a childish scrap. I asked her why she did not go out to play. Her reply was slow, but finally she said, "Well, I can't fight two kids bigger than me."

He Knew Differently.

"A man cannot serve two masters." "The devils he can't!" interrupted Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark., who is blessed with a halfpint and 14 children. "I'm serving fifteen of 'em, and doing a mighty fair job of it."—People's Home Journal.

It is surprising how many people are discovering this year that what they need is a farm tenant house. It is a fact that the farm tenant house is the only real solution of the farm-labor problem, for it is the dependable married man who makes the best help, and he is attracted quite as much by comfortable and attractive living conditions for his family and himself as by extra wages. The little run-of-the-mill shack which in some places have served to house the "chilled man" are being replaced and made more comfortable. New tenant houses are being put up, and they are relieving the farm labor shortage wonderfully.

It is by urging improvements of this kind that lumber dealers and country builders are helping the government in the solution of this vexing problem.

The shortage of farm labor has been serious for a number of years, even before the war began. Since this country has become involved, thousands of our young men have left the farms to fight and to go into the munition plants and the other war supply industries.

The agricultural department, co-operating with the United States labor department, is endeavoring to attract the older men from other walks of life to go out into the rural districts and become real producers on the farm.

Practical Tenant House. For this reason, in view of the great urgency of the farm labor problem at this time, it is with special satisfaction that we present working plans for this very practical tenant house.

It is a one-story building, size 28 by 25 feet, containing a large living room, good-sized kitchen, two bedrooms, and a convenient bathroom. The basement is excavated for basement heating plant (pipeless furnace), and laundry. A special section for the cold storage of fruits and vegetables is excavated under the front porch.

One of the advantages of the pipeless or non-register furnace is that it doesn't heat the cellar but delivers all of the heat up into the living rooms of the house. This being so, practical have at hand, or can get without waste, even though they stick up above the forms. There are the rafters and ceiling joists for the porch and rafters and plates for the rear porch and dormer, and some studs for the lower part of the front porch, some cellar beams in the attic, all of which may be worked in for forms. It will be safe to cut up a few 4's if needed for they will be used later for headers and under and beside windows and doors and at corners. Notice the size of the windows and cut them long enough for two headers, or to go up at the side. A 15 or 10-foot stick makes three.

The roof boards can be used and may be cut as needed. The collar windows are above the forms and at the door the boards can run across and need not be cut. Some short pieces will be used in the cellarway and under the porch, but you may put some of these on end and so save cutting.

There will no doubt be some lumber used in the forms which cannot be thought this can be made a small item. Some of the boards can be used in the cold bin, for bridging, for the forms for the piers and chimney base, and in other places and save cutting long boards.

All Chivalry Not Dead. A pretty bit of chivalry was seen in a London (England) suburb the other day. It was early in the morning. The lady was out on his airplane and was flying low—so low as to make the tenants of the terraces anxious about their chimney pots. In the garden the maiden waited, and there fluttered down through the morning dew something that seemed to be a bit of white plumage. It landed in the garden, and fell into the road. The maiden rushed out and picked up her long letter. After all, in these grim days who will grumble at a glimpse of ancient chivalry in modern guise?

House That Was Born Barn. A barn, it seems, is rather an easy thing to turn into a human habitation. In this case the transformation was made some years ago, and the completed home and studio has been occupied in turn by two well-known painters, both of them women, whose occupancy has given it the real but intangible atmosphere of a place that has been lived in. Only the informed eye rediscovers the barn; the studio might have been built for a studio, and the picturesque quality inherited from the barn might have been conveyed by the architect.—Ralph Berggren, in the House Beautiful.

Fish Airplanes. The name "butterfly-fish" is given in Torres Strait to a small rare fish that leaves the water and flies, or glides, for some little distance. Its flight is slow. The body is about four inches long, and shaped like a slightly flattened cigar. A peppy little head at the fore-end is held higher than the back, and, right off, the trunk is fitted with a tail, shaped like the tail of an airplane. The wings, about three or four inches across, are butterfly shape and act as planes only, no movement in them being visible. Body, black; wings, spotted black and white.

Primitive Methods of Farming. In Central America many primitive agricultural implements are still retained. The native farmer still uses a plow with a crooked tree-branch pointed with iron. The objection to the modern two-handled plow is that one hand is needed for guiding the animals, hence the introduction into Benin of a trial modern-style plow with one handle.

TENANT HOUSE ON FARM KEEPS HELP

Found to Be Real Solution of Labor Problem.

HERE IS PRACTICAL DESIGN

Plans Call for One-Story Building, 28 by 25 Feet, Containing Living Room, Kitchen, Bedrooms and Bathroom.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. In account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 187 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose three-cent stamp for reply.

It is surprising how many people are discovering this year that what they need is a farm tenant house. It is a fact that the farm tenant house is the only real solution of the farm-labor problem, for it is the dependable married man who makes the best help, and he is attracted quite as much by comfortable and attractive living conditions for his family and himself as by extra wages. The little run-of-the-mill shack which in some places have served to house the "chilled man" are being replaced and made more comfortable. New tenant houses are being put up, and they are relieving the farm labor shortage wonderfully.

It is by urging improvements of this kind that lumber dealers and country builders are helping the government in the solution of this vexing problem.

WASHINGTON CITY SIDELIGHTS

Just a Call From That Dreaded Visitor, "the Wolf"

WASHINGTON.—A man rang the bell of a house in the first ward and asked the woman who answered it if she was Mrs. Blank. The woman suited up and said that she was Mrs. Blank's sister, and invited him in. The man, preferred to stand at the door.

There was a draped portiere at the parlor grill, and the man couldn't help seeing on its floor a squirming heap of children piled on top of one another and under the kicking arms and legs of a woman who scrambled free and stood up laughing, while the sister voiced embarrassment from the door.

"Come, children, mamma has company—finish your game with me." The mamma woman, still chuckling, pattered her hair and straightened herself into social form.

"I have a bill here, madam—" "Another?" "It is for the rent. We let it run over this month, as usual, but the new owner is a woman who depends on the income for her own expenses, and she wants her house or her money by ten o'clock in the morning."

"Oh, but I can't move. I really cannot. For one thing, I haven't the money, and besides this is the dearest old house—there's such a lovely yard for the children to play in—the sun gets in there even on rainy days—and, besides, I always pay, sooner or later."

"Sorry, madam, but business is business." She saw by his face that he meant it. And then she saw that it was a peculiar face; that he had a long white side tooth that lifted his lip when he spoke, and that he had gray hair to match the gray of his suit.

When the engaging sister came down and found the mamma woman standing in the dark of the hall trying her best not to cry, she reached out her arms and scooped her in. Then she asked: "What on earth is the matter—who was that at the door?"

And the mamma woman trembled out: "The wolf."

Probably Her First Experience With Business

A REAL estate agent was showing a house—six rooms and bath; so much down and the balance in monthly installments forever after—to a customer who was looking over the premises with his wife. The deal was satisfactory from every angle until it came to the point where the husband, in a gust of loving thought, happened to mention to the agent that he would make the house over to his wife. But the wife objected:

"Why, Bert, I'm surprised at you—to saddle me with a responsibility like that! I'm famished for a house of my very own, but if I've got to tied down to—"

"Say, old girl, climb down to common sense. It is only that I want it

"No, sir; I may be foolish when it comes to business, but I know too much for that. You've got to do all the signing and everything."

The men grinned at each other and the husband man patted the shoulders of his business-looking old girl, who was rather a fellow young one.

"You don't understand, Nettie. What I mean, as Mr. Agent here can tell you, is, in case anything should happen to me—"

"That settles it, Bert Blank! I'm ready and glad to go in with you and do my share of saving and all, but when it comes to putting the house on my shoulders—say, since you are so set on not having it in your own name, maybe Mr. Agent will let you shove it on to him."

Sounds silly, of course; but, to quote the agent, ignorance like that is not at all a rare occurrence among women who are having their first experience with business. All they know about buying a dreamed-of home is that it takes a long time and means years of self-denial and signing of notes, and, not understanding, they balk at the unknown.

"And There Followed a Mist and a Weeping Rain"

THE brief chronicle of a case of pride before a fall, etc. She had done a lot of canning, as per instructions from the department of agriculture, and the food administration, and she was mighty proud of her work. There was jam, and jelly, and marmalade, and about everything else in the canned line one could desire. All the canning was not done by any means, however. Cans of beans, corn, etc., vied with the fruit display.

But the woman was particularly proud of her canned cherries. She lost no opportunity to call attention

HOW TO STORE VEGETABLES

Beets, carrots, rutabagas, turnips and winter radishes may be stored under practically the same conditions of temperature and moisture, and especially difficult to maintain in the cellar of a furnace heated house. Covering a pile of vegetables with gunny sack which is sprinkled occasionally is a very effective means of preventing loss of moisture. The important thing is to keep the gunny sack really wet. In cellars with cement floors, water can be put on the floors occasionally to keep the atmosphere moist, or it may be placed in broad pans or tubs. Packing in sand in boxes or placing in piles and covering with sand are other means of avoiding loss of moisture. The sand should be kept wet enough to prevent the wilting of the roots. Lack of moisture means a practically worthless product. The temperature should be as near as possible to the freezing point. Parsnips and radishes may be stored as the other root crops are, but a better product results if the plants are left in the garden until spring. However, it is convenient to have enough in the cellar for an overwinter supply. Turnips may also be left out of doors. All these vegetables keep well under out door conditions except in such unusual weather as that of last year.

Reports from manufacturers of canning supplies who have conformed to recommendations of the United States Department of Agriculture in the making of equipment indicate that the interest in home canning is increasing rapidly. There is a widespread demand for more equipment that will save labor and time in canning. It is estimated that there has been during the year a 50 per cent increase in the number of firms manufacturing home canning supplies, an average increase of 25 per cent in the quantity of equipment sold, and an increase of 300 per cent in the quantity of equipment sold, and an increase of 300 per cent in the quantity of equipment sold.

Just now the "Spanish Influenza," is spreading throughout the country. It is somewhat more severe than the grip, but very much along the same lines. The following rules have been issued to the army and apply as well to people in general:

1. Avoid headless crowding. Influenza is a crowd disease.
2. Sneeze into your elbow and sneezes. Others do not want the germs which you throw away.
3. Your nose, not your mouth, was used to breathe through. Get the habit.
4. Remember the three C's—clean mouth, clean skin and clean clothes.
5. Try to keep cool when you walk and warm when you ride and sleep.
6. Open the windows—always at home at night; at the office when practicable.
7. Food will win the war if you give it a chance by choosing and chewing your food well.
8. Your feet may be in your own hands. Wash your hands before eating.
9. Don't let the waste products of digestion accumulate. Bring a glass of water on getting up.
10. Don't use a napkin, towel, spoon, fork, glass or cup which has been used by another person and not washed.
11. Avoid tight clothes, flannel shoes, tight gloves. Seek to make nature your ally, not your enemy.
12. When the air is pure, breathe all of it you can. Breathe deeply.

Somewhere in France, August 18, 1918

Dear Parents—

I don't much love to write this letter because we have been in the man's land, that is, it was once in the French hands and now it belongs to the French now again, and believe me it is a pretty warm place up there. Expect that you have read all about what the Americans did to the Germans there last year in the name of the Lord, but I don't know if you have read the full account of it in the Tribune which I got regular. Got a letter from Mom the other day and she was going to tell me just as soon as I got time, would you tell her I won't have to tell her I will write it for her.

Your son,
Hans Karmatz.

MEANING OF STARS

A blue star is used to represent each person, man or woman, in the military and naval service of the United States.

For those killed in action a gold star will be substituted for the blue star or superimposed on it. In such a manner as to entirely cover it.

For those wounded in action a silver star will be substituted for the blue star or superimposed on it in such a manner as to entirely cover it. Use of the star in this manner would indicate that those entitled to the official wound chevrons which is awarded to those receiving wounds in action with the enemy or disabled by a gas attack, necessitating treatment by a medical officer.

For those who subsequently die from such wounds or gas disability, the gold star will be superimposed on the silver in such a manner as to leave a margin of blue around the silver.

For those disabled of invalided home by injury or disease incurred in line of duty in the military or naval service, a silver star will be superimposed on the blue star in such a manner as to leave a margin of blue around the silver.

For those who subsequently die as the result of such accident or disease contracted in line of duty, and the gold star will be substituted for the blue star or superimposed in such a manner as to entirely cover it, leaving however, the margin of blue.

AN IMMENSE ARMY

With the new registration held on Thursday of last week, opened one of the most important calls in the country ever known. Approximately 15,000,000 men from 18 to 45 years of age. The rapidly with which the number of the nation must be called to the colors under the new act is a matter of fact. In order to keep the enlistments filled next month, was emphasized in a statement made last week by Provost Marshall Crowder, who stated that the drafting of the new act in order in which registrants are to be called probably will be held not later than October 2 and that the first of the new recruits will be inducted into the service by October 15.

Because of this emergency, all of the officials connected with the complicated draft machinery have been called upon to make unusual efforts not only in registering, but in classifying under the questionnaire system the 15,000,000 men who are to register on September 12. It is General Crowder's hope that this form by October 1. It is understood that the men from 19 to 35 will be called first.

Every man registering must on all occasions have in his possession his registration card, otherwise he is subject to arrest. The meaning of 18 to 45 is that you are not 18 until your eighteenth birthday and that you are 45 until your forty-sixth birthday.

The continuation school will open at the Lincoln high school next week, when there will be numerous classes organized. The number of classes of course depends on the people who wish to take instruction and will include commercial branches, languages, domestic science and various other branches.

Cut Your Taxes

If a part or all of your tax money is deposited in the Savings Department on or before October 12th, you will earn 3 per cent interest on January 1st.

This interest money will be just the same as a reduction of that amount in your taxes.

Small deposits are welcome.

SPANISH INFLUENZA
Just now the "Spanish Influenza" is spreading throughout the country. It is somewhat more severe than the grip, but very much along the same lines. The following rules have been issued to the army and apply as well to the civilian in general:

1. Avoid headless crowding. Influenza is a crowd disease.
2. Smother your coughs and sneezes. Others do not want the germs which you throw away.
3. Your nose, not your mouth, was made to breathe through. Get the habit.
4. Remember the three C's—clean mouth, clean skin and clean clothes.
5. Try to keep cool when you walk, and warm when you ride and sleep.
6. Open the windows—always at home at night; at the office when practicable.
7. Food will win the war if you give it a chance. Help by choosing and chewing your food well.
8. Your fate may be in your own hands. Wash your hands before eating.
9. Don't let the waste products of digestion accumulate. Drink a glass or two of water on getting up.
10. Don't use a napkin, towel, spoon, fork, glass or cup which has been used by another person and not washed.
11. Avoid tight clothes, tight shoes, tight gloves. Seek to make nature your ally, not your enemy.
12. When the air is pure, breathe all of it you can. Breathe deeply.

LETTER FROM FRANCE
Somewhere in France, August 18, 1918.

Dear Parents:

As I haven't much news to write this time because we have been up in no man's land, that is it was once but it belongs to the French now again, and believe me it is a pretty warm place up there. Expect that you have read all about what the Americans did to the Huns so there isn't any use in me to try to write about it, but nevertheless they sure had him on the go and we had a hell of a time trying to catch him to. They handed him a package that he won't forget for a while. We believe that our country has a horse shoe hanging over us as we didn't lose a man killed altho we had several wounded and we lost a few horses, haven't time just now to describe everything to you, but will save it and tell it when I get back which I hope will be soon. I got two of your letters and was sure glad to hear from you. I wish you could write more often. Was awful sorry to hear of Uncle Fred's death, wish I could of been there to read the full account of it in the Tribune which I got regular. Got a letter from Fern the other day and am going to answer it just as soon as I get time, would like to do it now but haven't time, but I will write it if you happen to see her.

Your son,
Henry Karnatz.

MEANING OF STARS
A blue star is used to represent each person, man or woman, in the military naval service of the United States.

For those killed in action a gold star will be substituted for the blue star or superimposed on it in such a manner as to entirely cover it.

For those wounded in action a silver star will be substituted for the blue star or superimposed on it in such a manner as to entirely cover it. Use of the star in this manner would be limited to those entitled to the official wound chevron which is awarded to those receiving wounds in action with the enemy or disabled by a gas attack, necessitating treatment by a medical officer.

For those who subsequently die from such wounds or gas, the gold star will be superimposed on the silver star in such a manner as to leave a margin of blue around the silver.

For those disabled or invalidated home by injury or disease incurred in line of duty in the military or naval service, a silver star will be superimposed on the blue star in such a manner as to leave a margin of blue around the silver.

For those who subsequently die as the result of such accident or disease contracted in line of duty, and who were thus previously represented by a silver star superimposed on the blue with blue margin, a gold star will be substituted for the silver star or superimposed in such manner as to entirely cover it, leaving however, the margin of blue.

AN IMMENSE ARMY
With the new registration held on Thursday of last week, opened one of the largest drafts in the history of the world. Approximately 12,000,000 men from 18 to 45 years of age. The rapidity with which the manhood of the nation was being registered, and the number of the new selective service law in order to keep the cantonments filled next month was emphasized in a statement made last week by Post Marshall Crowder, who stated that the drawing to determine the order in which registrants are to be called probably will be held not later than October 2 and that the first of the new recruits will be inducted into the service by October 16.

Because of this emergency, all of the officials connected with the complicated draft machinery have been called upon to make unusual efforts not only in registering but in classifying under the questionnaire system the 13,000,000 men who are to register on September 12. It is General Crowder's hope that this great task may be in its complete form by October 1. It is understood that the men from 18 to 35 will be called first.

Every man registering must on all occasions have in his possession his registration card, otherwise he is subject to arrest. The meaning of 18 to 45 is that you are not 18 until your eighteenth birthday and that you are 45 until your forty-sixth birthday.

The continuation school will open at the Lincoln high school next week, when there will be numerous classes organized. The number of classes of course depends on the people who wish to take instruction and will include commercial branches, languages, domestic science and various other branches.

John Paizer, one of the rising young farmers near Vesper was pleasant caller at the Tribune office on Saturday. John reports everything moving along nicely out his way with most of the farms are pretty well satisfied with their season's work.

CARRYING WAR to the PEOPLE

MODEL POULTRY HOUSE SHOWN BY BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

Various Government Departments Unite in Preparing Elaborate Exhibits for State Fairs and Expositions.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

THE United States government has combined its traveling displays of public work and is to exhibit them so as better to inform the people concerning the work of their government toward winning the war. The combined display is a war show from beginning to end, for every activity of the government now has a bearing, more or less direct, on the one national aim of preserving popular rule for the world. Thus, not only will there be vital interest in the exhibits of the war and navy departments, but in the displays of the work of the department of agriculture in stimulating increased production of food; the activities of the food administration in encouraging the conservation and equitable distribution of this fundamental war material; the addition of new food sources through the bureau of fisheries of the department of commerce; the safeguarding of human life and indirectly increasing of food production through the work of the nine rescue cars of the bureau of mines, department of interior; and the spreading of official news through the committee on public information.

The joint committee on government exhibits, which acts for the various departments in administering the displays and is headed as chairman by E. L. Hanson, secretary of the department of agriculture, has conferred for the exhibits to be shown simultaneously on the circuits of approximately 35 state fairs and expositions from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Organization of five circuits does not mean that any one circuit is being favored or discriminated against in the quantity or quality of displays. The government exhibit material is of such magnitude that no fair has been able to offer more space than can be filled. The army and navy exhibits have been made up in five duplicate sets. In fact, practically the only variations of material in the displays are in those of the department of agriculture, which has placed, in addition to its exhibits of general interest, displays of particular importance for specific regions. For instance, where wheat-growing is all-absorbing, wheat will be featured, and where cotton fever tick is smothering and destroying meat, special emphasis will be placed on the fight to rid American territory of this parasite.

The government exhibits have much to detain even the busy exhibitor, but in the present of government work and of important aid which the public can render the government in the national crisis is the big aim. All exhibits are educational and those of purely technical interest are rarely used. Displays are the product of years of experience in exposition methods and every effort is made to visualize subjects in such manner that observers will be informed as well as entertained.

To list and describe adequately every item in the exhibits would require many words. Features selected here and there, however, may serve to give an idea of the complete show.

The war department display can hardly fail to place Americans more closely in touch with their boys who are making more and more the hosts that wear the crowns. There are Browning machine guns for infantry use and Lewis machine guns of the aircraft type; mountain cannon that can be pulled to Alpine heights; figures clothed in regulation uniforms, including an aviator's flying tights; rifles of the latest model used "over there," and wooden blocks showing penetration of the old and new bullets; complete equipment of the beloved "doughboy," and a trench periscope through which the water of the front line can be seen. The "Fighting" gas masks that he dons when the Hun sends his favorite poison; the trench helmet that protects him and the hand grenades he carries; the shovel with which he digs a trench and the pump that takes out the water.

Then there are models of the various kinds of tents used by the army, national and regimental colors in silk, storm and post flags, a portable field wireless outfit, heliograph instruments, lanterns for night signaling, day and night rockets and signal flags.

And if any American hasn't learned yet to distinguish a sergeant major from a brigadier general, he can do so by looking at the insignia of officers and the chevrons of enlisted men, with the wound and service chevrons authorized for officers and men serving in France.

The navy display shows more of the tools that are making this world a unsafe place for international burglars, and also some relics captured from German soldiers. The navy shows a depth charge of the kind whose bubbles often mean the end for some submarine pirate; a naval mine and anchor, and a big torpedo with its track. Projectiles of various sizes are accompanied by bombs that airplanes drop. The clothing display includes some worn in winter weather by the boys aboard our submarines.

Trumpets, drums, rifles, swords, flags and pennants are some of the other things shown. But it is expected that nowhere will the crowds be thicker than around the models of modern battleships, dreadnaughts, cruisers, destroyers and other vessels that will be shown at all the fairs and expositions.

The scope of work of the department of agriculture is so wide and the quantity of its exhibit material is so great that its displays vary in different sections of the country, but in every case they have been selected to elicit some reason why American agricultural production must be increased, and again increased, and to show some of the numerous ways by which it can be done. These exhibits are not for the farmer alone. They are for him first, but food production has become the business and concern of everybody in America, and nearly everybody has come to know it. More than that, the agricultural exhibits are attractive, interesting and informing enough to hold the attention of even the novice who cannot tell a solo from a silo.

The weather bureau shows how it is able to forecast storms, frosts and floods to protect agriculture, commerce and navigation, and displays its daily weather map showing conditions in the immediate vicinity of the exhibition. The bureau of animal industry shows how to improve and increase the country's supply of meat, milk and poultry, how it guards the health of the cattle and our soldiers and sailors through its meat inspection system, and how to drive out the destructive animal diseases that annually take a toll of more than many millions of dollars. That other great co-ordinated branch of the department of agriculture, the bureau of plant industry, treats its field in the same manner, with special attention to methods of bettering and stimulating plant production and eradicating plant diseases.

Broad features of forest service work are presented in popular and striking form. Models urge the burning of forest fires to release coal and for other uses and war purposes and relieve transportation, contrast proper methods of logging with the wasteful ways, and show the proper handling of tree windbreaks for increasing crop and animal production. Other forest service displays show how forest fires are prevented or discovered and fought; how valuable timber can be saved for war uses; and the need of retaining forests to retard soil erosion on slopes.

Decorative exhibits of the bureau of chemistry illustrate the enforcement of the food and drug act, production and preservation of food products, use of tanning materials, production of colors and other chemical industries. Differences between true and imitation commercial articles are shown, and light is thrown on adulterated or misbranded medicinal preparations, including headache "remedies," "tonics," preparations, asthma, constipation and other alleged "cures."

Samples of the soils that occur in the United States, including some sent to the neighborhood of the particular exhibition, together with information relating to their best use in farming, are among the bureau of soils displays. The states relations service shows its work in co-operation with the state agricultural colleges, in spreading farming information through county agents, home demonstration agents and boys' and girls' clubs, and illustrates food conservation by canning and drying.

The bureau of entomology's exhibits of destructive insects and ways of controlling them are particularly interesting at this time of need for more food production and conservation. Likewise, the bureau of biological survey's displays of stuffed animals and birds, representing the control or destruction of the predatory species and the conservation of the desirable kinds, take added significance. Demands on the railways, with growing use of motor trucks, stress the importance of the good-roads construction and maintenance exhibits of the office of public roads and rural engineering, and war conditions also lend interest to the bureau of markets' display of safe methods of shipping grain, distribution of farm products, grain standards and cotton standards, and various types of shipping containers.

Agriculture has been called the most peaceful industry in the world, but it is believed that the department's displays will remove any question as to efficient farming being absolutely essential in an effective war machine.

But America must not feed itself alone. It must sustain millions of the citizens and fighting men on its valiant allies. The food administration, in its exhibits, drives that fact deep. Feature displays are decorative panels contributed by representative American illustrators to illustrate twelve points in a recent speech by Herbert Hoover, food administrator.

The purpose, scope and accomplishments of the food administration, the situation with which it is dealing, and work being done by the home conservation department are shown.

The bureau of fisheries of the department of commerce has displays to urge the utilization of fishery products now used little or not at all, but that are available to help supply the demand for meat. Samples and posters of whale shark, gray fish, snappers, eels, catfish, herring, mackerel, skates and rays represent some of the dining table strangers shown.

The fisheries exhibit also displays fanned skins of aquatic animals and most people know that leather is valuable now—with a demonstration of point button manufacture, one of the industries that Germany dominated before the war.

Programs of moving pictures treating many wartime themes are shown in connection with the other exhibits. They screen American soldiers at the fighting front and in camp; farmers striving for bigger crops in the country; methods of conserving as well as increasing the food supply, views of beautiful landscapes in the national parks; reclamation of arid lands, highway construction and other activities, many of them in direct relation to winning the war.

At every fair where the combined exhibits are displayed, the Four-Minute Men—the volunteer speakers who are fighting disloyal propaganda and urging unflinching public support for every war movement—gather in state conclaves. They speak the regulation four minutes between the official motion pictures, and assist the soldiers and sailors and department representatives in explaining displays. The Four-Minute Men have headquarters at booths maintained by the committee on public information.

At a number of the fairs where truckage facilities can be provided or near the grounds, one of the motor rescue cars of the bureau of mines, department of the interior, will be open to the public. Full crews of five men will be on duty to explain the intricate rescue apparatus.

Japan and the Cherry Blossom

No flower has entered Japanese history, literature, art and religious thought longer or more richly than our sakaki or Japanese cherry. It was only natural, therefore, that foreign visitors to this country began to call it the land of cherry blossoms and that they have chosen sakaki as our national flower by common consent. Our army has adopted the blossom as its insignia as an expression of the national ideal of always being ready to die for a cause, after the manner of sakaki, which falls in the height of natural glory and human admiration without the slightest desire to linger in the world.

JUGGLERS OF HEARTS.

Probably the world's marrying record for men was created by that notorious bigamist, George Whitton, whose marriages have been estimated at about 800. In the space of a single week he went through marriage ceremonies with ten women.

An amazing matrimonial record, too, was that of a certain John Watson. This "juggler of hearts" became acquainted with the eight daughters of a brewer. Within a year he had gone through a form of marriage with each of the eight sisters, and had succeeded in deceiving with their savings.

THOSE WAR TERMS.

One of the rear-end-of-the-street-car regulars boarded the car at his accustomed corner after an absence of about two weeks. He was looking "peaked" and one of his friends asked: "Where have you been for a couple of weeks, Brown?"

"Oh, I had a slight touch of pneumonia," Brown answered.

"Pneumonia!" said the first speaker; "looks to me like you might have had a direct hit!"

How Old Is an Angel of Mercy?

The secretary of war, having in mind all that he had heard about the transcendental brow stroking and pillock smooching functions of the ladies, wrote to General Pershing, proposing the question: How old is an angel of mercy? At least, so says New York Medical Journal, which furthermore reports and comments upon the fact that General Pershing replied, "Twenty-five or over," so that, now there is a rule preventing girls in their most angelic age from becoming angels of mercy in France.

MAN OF MYSTERY KEEPS SECRET

Half-Breed Dies Without Revealing Method of Recovering the Dead.

GETS DROWNED BODIES

Always Worked at Night, Possessed an Uncanny Power and Succeeded Where All Other Methods Had Failed.

Stillwater, Minn.—John Jeremy, a mysterious character, who for 42 years made his living by recovering the bodies of persons drowned in lakes and rivers of the northwest, ended his career recently by committing suicide after he had shot and killed an acquaintance in a quarrel over a woman. Jeremy, who was seventy-two years old and a resident of this place, died without disclosing his uncanny method of bringing bodies to the surface.

One of his notable feats took place shortly before his death when he recovered the body of Miss Helen Leonard of St. Paul, who was drowned in Lake Phelan several weeks previously. The lake had been raked scores of times and hope had been abandoned when "Fisherman John," as Jeremy was known, announced that he would find the body. Within a short time he had succeeded and collected $100 for his work.

Liked Starlight for His Work. Jeremy worked alone and always at night. He liked a starry sky, but the rays of a full moon seemed to hamper rather than aid him. Some persons who for years had studied the peculiarities of Jeremy, who was a half-breed, claimed he used trained muskrats to locate the missing corpses. Others claimed he used the freakish twists and turns of the river and lake currents so well that he needed no other aid.

"Fisherman John" began his unique profession in 1870. His office was attracted the attention of the entire northwest and he received large sums for the recovery of many of the bodies.

Worked Alone and Always at Night.

He was present on several occasions when persons sank and brought them to the surface so quickly that their lives were saved. Twenty-three of his recoveries were made from the Mississippi river and he was credited with a total of 104 bodies taken from waters of the northwest.

GAME STOPPED FOR ANTHEM

Exciting Contest at Fort Slocum Halted With Bases Full and Batter Makes Long Hit.

The unexpected becomes the commonplace for the boys in olive drab, yet remains the unexpected for civilians. A recent close and exciting baseball game at Fort Slocum was halted for two or three minutes with the bases full and just as the batter had struck what was sure for a two-bagger and was halfway down to first base. It was "tired" at sundown, when the flag is hoisted down. As it descended and the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" the batter halted halfway to first. The men on bases who had started for home also stopped and the outfielder let the ball fall where it would. As the first note broke out every player sprang to attention, faced the flag and stood at salute until the last note of the anthem died away. The game was then resumed. The same sight may be seen at almost any camp.

GRIDIRON GAME AND WAR ARE COMPARED

Football and Military Tactics on Western Front Alike.

In Allied Drive Between Solons and Reims Maps Show Massed Movement Toward Center, Same as Worked in Football.

War is like football, according to Louis Lee Atter in New York Sun. There is an interesting similarity between football and military tactics, as there should be, since each is to gain ground. In the allied drive between Solons and Reims military maps show a massed movement toward the center, precisely as would be done in football were one of the backs to make an all-out tackle thrust.

The American troops in the center of the push line and starting to get a wedge into La Chappelle have driven a wedge into the German line and carried it before them in a manner that could be likened to a center and two guards putting their opponents out of play.

In military advances there is none in combat behind carrying the ball, but if there were, as the lines exist today, the backfield of the Franco-American team could make an undisturbed and run off the Huns' right end, through Tattenloren, Villeneuve, Chaudun and Vermand, for the German ends have been boxed in. It would be up to the defensive full or quarterback, which is represented by the Kaiser's troops further back, to stop the runner.

By turning both ends of the German line the line and starting to get a wedge into La Chappelle have driven a wedge into the German line and carried it before them in a manner that could be likened to a center and two guards putting their opponents out of play.

Our allies are commencing upon the intelligent manner in which Americans tactically conduct their attack. Well, General Pershing is a peppy football fan!

One distinct advantage of the football game is that any number of men can participate. Then, too, the apparatus required is simple, and consists merely of two round poles about two inches in diameter and a football, all of which are connected with ropes. Six men grasp the first pole and four men the second several feet behind, these men composing a team. Attached to the second pole is a sled or chariot, which contains one runner and the game consists of dragging the chariot and its rider over a given course.

Jim Riley, whose name was famous 40 years ago in the rowing world, is out with another challenge. The one-time champion, now past the seventy mark, although he looks hardly more than sixty, will row any oarsman in the world who is sixty-seven years or older any distance from one to three miles. I won't concede any handicaps, but he will take all comers, and so confident is he that he can defeat anyone who tries to row against him that he will put up the cup which he won 35 years ago as a trophy. He is particularly anxious to meet Jim Tarry, the elder, who was coach of the Syracuse university crews up until a few months ago, and is now engaged in a similar capacity at the Duluth Boat club.

TEXAS LEAGUER "SNICK"

English sports writers have been having a hard time trying to learn American nomenclature. But they have courage. They already have begun helping us out.

Look what they have dubbed a "Texas leaguer." That name means nothing, absolutely nothing to them. Indeed, some of them think Texas is still the abode of ferocious savages.

But they have gone and called the "Texas leaguer" a "snick."

She pointed out the money from the sale of her farm that she would purchase additional Liberty bonds.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ashton, age seventy-six, enjoys the distinction of being the champion climber of Northumberland county, Pennsylvania. Despite her age, she can climb a tree of such a height, and since the beginning of America's participation in the war has sent 250 pairs of socks and six sweaters to the soldiers in France.

bloody angle was a term applied to a position in the battlefield of Gettysburg, taken and held during several hours of hard fighting by troops commanded by Gen. Daniel E. Sickles. Shortly before the battle ended a shell shattered General Sickles' knee, but he buckled a strap around his leg and remained on his horse until the last shot was fired. That night his leg was amputated.

How Old Is an Angel of Mercy? The secretary of war, having in mind all that he had heard about the transcendent brow stroking and pillow smoothing functions of the ladies, wrote to General Pershing, propounding the question: How old is an angel of mercy? At least, so says New York Medical Journal, which further reports and comments upon the fact that General Pershing replied, "twenty-five, or over," so that now there is a rule preventing girls in their most angelic age from becoming angels of mercy in France.

There is an interesting similarity between football and military tactics, as there should be, since each is to gain ground. In the allied drive between Soissons and Reims military maps show a massed movement toward the center, precisely as would be done in football were one of the backs to make an off-tackle thrust. The American troops in the center of the push line and starting at Reims and La Chapelle have driven a wedge into the German line and carried it before them in a manner that could be likened to a center and two guards putting their opponents out of play. In military advances there is none to come behind carrying the ball, but if there were, as the lines exist today, the backfield of the Franco-American troops could make an unimpeded run and run off the Huns' right end, through Hartennes, Villeneuve, Chaudun and Perment, for the German ends have been boxed in. It would be up to the defensive full or quarterback, which is represented by the Kaiser's troops further back, to stop the runner. By turning both ends of the German line in, the idea has been to bottle up a great number of men and capture an entire salient. In football it is not necessary to bottle up the forwards of the opposition. If they are tactically outmaneuvered, so that they cannot reach the runner with the ball, they have accomplished what they set about to do. The lines between Soissons and Reims would be a complete success in a football sense. Our allies are commenting upon the intelligent manner in which Americans tactically conduct their attack. In military advances there is none to come behind carrying the ball, but if there were, as the lines exist today, the backfield of the Franco-American troops could make an unimpeded run and run off the Huns' right end, through Hartennes, Villeneuve, Chaudun and Perment, for the German ends have been boxed in. It would be up to the defensive full or quarterback, which is represented by the Kaiser's troops further back, to stop the runner. By turning both ends of the German line in, the idea has been to bottle up a great number of men and capture an entire salient. In football it is not necessary to bottle up the forwards of the opposition. If they are tactically outmaneuvered, so that they cannot reach the runner with the ball, they have accomplished what they set about to do. The lines between Soissons and Reims would be a complete success in a football sense. Our allies are commenting upon the intelligent manner in which Americans tactically conduct their attack. Well, General Pershing is a peep-eyed football fan!

"Seize Me, Mamma." Ruth is three years old. Recently she has been playing with the neighborhood children, and has learned to use words which until then had been foreign to her vocabulary. The other day she was on her back porch. The screen door came to with a bang, tipping over the chair in which were her playthings. "Darn!" she exploded, wrathfully. Immediately her mother, who had heard the expression, came to the porch. "What did you say, Ruth?" she demanded.

Ruth looked up from the scattered playthings and smiled her most alluring smile. "Seize me, mamma," she returned.

"Who is back with this seizure?"

"I don't know who is back of it, but I know the sheriff is in front."

Jerusalem to Gaza by Rail.

The modern Ethiopian travels from Jerusalem to Gaza on his way to his home country far up the Nile by rail. Reports from Palestine indicate that since the British occupation of the country Gaza, the chief city of the Philistines in Old Testament days, has become an important railroad center. The branch line from Jerusalem to Gaza, which was built in 1905, has been extended from Gaza to a point 50 miles to the northward, and the old Turkish line from Ludd to Jerusalem, as well as the recently constructed branch line from Gaza to Suez Junction, has been restored and is now in operation.—Rochester Post Express.

Odds Too Much Against Her.

My little daughter Margery plays all day long in the open air. She is careful for an orphan and a few days ago I noticed that she played nearly all day long in the house with her dollies. Presumably that she had a reason for staying in the house, and just to try out a suspicion I entertained that she had been in a childish scrap. I asked her why she did not go out to play. Her reply was slow, but finally she said, "Well, I can't fight two kids bigger than me."

TENANT HOUSE ON FARM KEEPS HELP

Found to Be Real Solution of Labor Problem.

HERE IS PRACTICAL DESIGN

Plans Call for One-Story Building, 28 by 25 Feet, Containing Living Room, Kitchen, Bedrooms and Bathroom.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 187 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose three-cent stamp for reply.

It is surprising how many people are discovering this year that what they need is a farm tenant house. It is a fact that the farm tenant house is the only real solution of the farm labor problem, for it is the dependable married man who makes the best help, and he is attracted quite as much by comfortable and attractive living conditions for his family and himself as by extra wages. The little ranch-style cabin which in some places have served to house the "hired man" are being replaced and made more comfortable. New tenant houses are being put up, and they are relieving the farm labor shortage wonderfully. It is by urging improvements of this kind that lumber dealers and country builders are helping the government in the solution of this vexing problem.

The shortage of farm labor has been serious for a number of years, ever before the war began. Since this country has become involved, thousands of our young men have left the farms to fight and to go into the munition plants and the other war supply industries. The agricultural department, co-operating with the United States home department, is endeavoring to attract the older men from other walks of life to go out into the rural districts and become real producers on the farm.

Practical Tenant House.

For this reason, in view of the great urgency of the farm labor problem at this time, it is with special satisfaction that we present working plans for this very practical tenant house. It is a one-story building, size 28 by 25 feet, containing a large living room, good-sized kitchen, two nice bedrooms, and a convenient bathroom. The basement is excavated for basement heating plant (pipeless furnace), and laundry. A special section for the storage of fruits and vegetables is excavated under the front porch. One of the advantages of the pipeless or electric furnace is that it doesn't heat the cellar but delivers all of the heat up into the living rooms of the house. This being so, practically any part of this farmhouse basement can be used for storing potatoes, apples, etc.

There is some attic space above for storage, or possibly for extra sleeping space.

If we were called to build this house or a similar one, what would be the right way to begin? This would depend a little on the conditions, but in most cases the first step is to stake out the lot for excavation.

Being out in the country there is no sidewalk or street grade to be followed or measured from. The owner will tell where he wants it and the drawing shows how high it is to be above the ground.

Involve the house face the east, lay out the rectangle 28x25 feet, getting the corners square, and running the lines level and marking the height of the wall at each corner. With a transit this would not take long, but you may need to use a level and square the lines by the 6-8-10 rule.

Next set out the lines for the front porch, as this is to be dug out like the cellar, which seems to be a good idea, as it gives more room.

For this, run a line 6 feet from the front line and make it 3 feet shorter at each end. Then there is the cellar wall at the rear. The pier is 5 feet from the wall and it is 10 feet from this to the farther wall. For the other measurements one may scale the drawing and get 17 feet from the corner of the wall to the wall of cellar way.

Establishing the Lines.

Before the excavation is begun it will be necessary to drive a stake back each way from the corners so they will not be disturbed. And as you will want more lines, for the inside of the walls and for the footings and perhaps a center line, it will be best to drive two stakes and put a board on them to hold these lines. You may as well get these boards level and the same height so that the lines will serve as guides for the faces of the walls and also for the height and depth.

While the cellar is being dug you will want to get some material on the job for the forms for the concrete wall, and material for the wall.

We will suppose that the wall forms are to be at the bottom and are to be on both sides of the wall. Let us see what we can use of the stuff for the house without hiring it. The floor joists will be 12 and 16 feet long, 8 and 10 inches wide. These will work nicely for the long sides on the outside and can be used on the short sides by letting them run by.

We must not cut these joists, but shall need some shorter stuff for the inside of the walls and for the studs of the forms. The joists at the ends of the stairs will be shorter and can be cut. Also those studs on the porches. There will be short joists on the porches, though the front ones seem to be shown full length, we will hardly run them 22 feet.

Studs for the Forms.

The wall being low, the studs for the forms can be most any length we

HOW TO STORE VEGETABLES

Beets, carrots, rutabagas, turnips and winter radishes may be stored under practically the same conditions of temperature and moisture as especially necessary to these crops, and especially difficult to maintain in the cellar of a furnace heated house.

Covering a pile of vegetables with gunny sack which is sprinkled occasionally is a very effective means of preventing loss of moisture. The important thing is to keep the gunny sack really wet. In cellars with cement floors, water can be put on law floors occasionally to keep the atmosphere moist, or it may be placed in broad pans or tubs. Packing in and in boxes or placing in piles and covering with sand are other means of avoiding loss of moisture. The sand should be kept wet enough to prevent the wilting of the roots. Lack of moisture means a practically worthless product. The temperature should be as near as possible to the freezing point.

Paranips and salsify may be stored as the other root crops are, but a better product results if the plants are left in the garden until spring. However, it is convenient to have them in the cellar for an over-winter supply. Turnips may also be left out of doors. All these vegetables keep well under out door conditions except in such unusual weather as that of last year.

RECORD YEAR FOR CANNING IS INDICATED

Reports from manufacturers of canning supplies who have conformed to recommendations of the United States Department of Agriculture in the making of equipment indicate that the interest in home canning is increasing rapidly. There is a widespread demand for more equipment that will save labor and time in canning. It is estimated that there has been during the year a 50 per cent increase in the number of firms manufacturing home canning supplies, an average increase of 25 per cent in the quantity of equipment sold, and an increase of 300 per cent in the quantity of equipment sold, and an increase of 300 per cent in the demand for rubbers of standard quality. Some of the department's canning instructions have been published by outside parties in 10 different languages and more than 100 business concerns have republished the directions for free distribution to their employees and customers.

HOW TO STORE VEGETABLES

Beets, carrots, rutabagas, turnips and winter radishes may be stored under practically the same conditions of temperature and moisture is especially necessary to these crops, and especially difficult to maintain in the cellar of a furnace heated house.

Covering a pile of vegetables with gunny sack which is sprinkled occasionally in a very effective means of preventing loss of moisture. The important thing is to keep the gunny sack really wet. In cellars with cement floors, water can be put on the floors occasionally to keep the atmosphere moist, or it may be placed in broad pans or tubs. Packing in sand in boxes or placing in piles and covering with sand are other means of avoiding loss of moisture. The sand should be kept wet enough to prevent the wilting of the roots. Lack of moisture means a practically worthless product. The temperature should be as near as possible to the freezing point.

Turnips and rutabagas may be stored as the other root crops are, but a better product results if the plants are left in the garden until spring. However, it is convenient to have a winter supply. Turnips may also be left out of doors. All these vegetables keep well under out door conditions except in such unusual weather as that of last year.

RECORD YEAR FOR CANNING IS INDICATED

Reports from manufacturers of canning supplies who have conformed to recommendations of the United States Department of Agriculture in the making of equipment indicate that the interest in home canning is increasing rapidly. There is a widespread demand for more equipment that will save labor and time in canning. It is estimated that there has been during the year a 50 per cent increase in the number of firms manufacturing home canning supplies, an average increase of 25 per cent in the quantity of equipment sold, and an increase of 300 per cent in the quantity of equipment sold.

In the quantity of equipment sold, and an increase of 300 per cent in the demand for rubbers of standard quality. Some of the department's canning instructions have been published by outside parties in 10 different languages and more than 100 business concerns have reprinted the directions for free distribution to their employees and customers.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Jepsen of the town of Carson, were pleasant callers at this office on Thursday, while in the city shopping. Mr. Jepsen reports that he had good crops this year.
